VILLAGES DESTROYED IN PERSIAN QUAKE; SHOCKS CONTINUING

Known Casualties Number 123 Dead and 100 Injured; Damage Reported in Many Districts

Teheran, Persia, Sept. 24.–Several Villages in the vicinity of Bujnurd, are reported to have been destroyed with casualties as far as known of 123 dead and about 100 injured in the earthquake which shook the region last Thursday says dispatches reaching here. The shocks were continuing. Damage is also reported in the district of Shirvan.

Simla, British India, Sept. 24.—A severe earthquake was felt at Karman, Persia, last night. Considerable damage was done to buildings, but there was no loss of life. The first shock lasted over a period of ninety minutes.

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 23.—Violent earthquake shocks were recorded shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday at Relouan observatory. The disturbances, it was estimated, were about 2,500 miles distant.

West Bromwich, Eng., Sept. 23.—A severe earthquake was recorded on the seismograph here at 9 o'clock Saturday. The disturbance appears to be about 3,400 miles due east, which, if correct, would place the origin of the tremors somewhere in Persia.

IMPENDING DECISIONS POINT TO END OF RUHR OPPOSITION

German Passive Resistance Cannot Be an Effective Weapon for Another Single Day Is Judgment of German Leaders

Berlin, Sept. 24.—Germany's moral or weaponless warfare upon the Belgian and French encroachment of her territory and sovereignty may be said to have come to an end.

Officially its termination has not yet been decreed, but, aside from a noisy minority of supernationalists, competent opinion inside official circles and the sober judgment of political, industrial, financial and labor leaders are no longer under the delusion that the drooping spirits of the people of the Ruhr and the Rhineland can be sufficiently reanimated to make passive resistance an effective weapon for another single day.

Forlorn Situation

Human psychology, however, is not the sole determining factor in the hopelessly forlorn situation confronting the Stresemann Cabinet, for the cumulative effects of eight months of economic devastation resulting from the nation's defence of its sovereignty has brought the nation's leaders to realize that further indulgence in passivity would end in disaster.

Coming events are plainly forecast in to-day's editorial references to impending official decisions. Vorwaerts bluntly states that the termination of the Ruhr conflict has become a matter of necessity and that it was folly to attempt to conceal the fact that passive resistance is visibly losing force in the face of the heavy odds imposed by foreign coercion and the further fact that the national exchequer is no longer able to carry the monstrous financial burden caused by such resistance.

The Stronger Factor

The paper adds that the Ruhr conflict now demands a diplomatic solution in which situation "France will occupy the position of the stronger factor." All now depends, says the Socialist organ, on whether moderate opinion in France and the influence of her allies are sufficiently strong to accomplish some change in the situation which would lead to all round economic recuperation.

The Nationalist party, through its Reichstag leader, Dr. Hergt, announces "that it will have no part in any scheme of capitulation," although its pronouncement gives no hint of the course to be adopted in the event of the Government formally scrapping passive resistance.

FAMOUS IN POLITICS AND LITERATURE: VISCOUNT MORLEY

LORD MORLEY DIES AT RIPE OLD AGE

Was Eminent in Two Fields of Human Endeavor

London, Sept. 23.—Viscount Morley, of Blackburn, former Lord President of the Council and Secretary of State for India, died to-night at his residence in Wimbledon from heart disease. He was taken ill only this morning; and his end was peaceful. He was 85 years of age.

Lord Morley leaves no heir, and the peerage becomes extinct.

The veteran writer and statesman had lived for a long time in almost complete retirement. Like his famous colleague in the Asquith ministry, John Burns, he parted from the government in 1914 because he could not acquiesce in its war policy, and since that time had taken no very active part in politics.

In 1919, however, he was appointed a member of a special committee to draft treaties for the protection of the Jews, and later made appeals for Ireland self government.

Lord Morley came out of his retirement in December, 1921, to speak in the House of Lords on the Irish agreement, and he gave his support to the Irish treaty.

Lord Morley, of Blackburn, was born at Blackburn, Lancashire, England, December 24, 1838, the son of Jonathan Morley, a surgeon.

An excellent sketch of life in that city appears in his recollections recently published. He proceeded from Cheltenham College to Oxford, matriculating at Lincoln College in 1856, and three years later he took his degree. He took a course as a barrister, and was called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn, but did not practise.

Unlike most men who went straight from college to journalism in London, as did J. T. Delane, Mr. Morley began as an editor of the moribund Literary Gazette without passing through minor chairs of the newspaper office. Though The Gazette died, his fame grew. In 1868 he was editor for a short time of the daily Morning Star, which lasted only two years. Meanwhile he had succeeded G. H. Lewes in the editorship of The Fortnightly Review, which he conducted until 1883. Co-incidently he edited for Macmillan's Magazine the "English Men of Letters" series, in which appeared his famous Life of Edmund Burke.

'As demonstrating his wonderful capacity for work while engaged in these literary tasks of permanent value to English literature, he undertook in 1880 the editorship of The Pall Mall Gazette.

Political Beginnings

That period embraced the opening portion of the second Gladstone administration, Irish rioting, the Egyptian situation, and similar problems faced the ministry. He decided to enter Parliament, and take his share in the battle.

In his essay on Voltaire Lord Morley has laid down the duty of literary men to the state: "Voltaire rated literature as it ought to be rated, below action, not because writen speech is less of a force, but because the speculation and criticism of the literature that substantially influences the world makes far less demand than the actual conduct of great affairs on qualties which are not rare in detail, but are amazingly rare in combination—on temper, daring, foresight, solidity."

After two unsuccessful attempts Mr. Morley was elected at Newcastle-on-Tyne in 1883, and quickly he made his mark in Parliament. To his surprise when the third Gladstone administration was formed in 1886 he found himself selected for the most difficult of all posts—the Irish Secretaryship. How he fought the battle of Irish self government—how he broke with Mr. Chamberlain, his great friend, politically but never fraternally, are parts of British history. After the defeat of the Home Rule bill on its second reading Mr. Morley led a life divided between politics and letters until Mr. Gladstone returned to power in 1892, when he resumed the Irish secretary-

Street Railway Men Threaten to Strike Wednesday

Vancouver, Sept. 24—The street railwaymen this afternoon notified the British Columbia Electric Railway that unless their demands were met by Wednesday morning the men would refuse to work. The street cars would not be run after Tuesday night.

The dispute between the street car men and the company has been before a board of conciliation.

NATIONAL PRIDE CREATES DEMAND FOR NEW LOAN

Heavy Preliminary Subscription to Canadian Offer

Under $100,000,000 of the $172,000,000 Objective Available to Public

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 24 — The remarkable demand for the new Dominion of Canada refunding loan in the business days which elapsed between the announcement of the issue by the Minister of Finance and its offering to the public this morning has aroused comment throughout the country. Of the total objective of $172,000,000, considerably over $72,000,000 had been taken by the week-end, leaving somewhat under $100,000,000 still available for the public. The rapidity with which the first two-fifths were sold gives every indication that the present loan will be one of the most popular offerings ever placed before the people of Canada.

National pride has been aroused in this issue in a manner unparalleled since the days of the great victory loan campaigns. It was known some months ago that the finance department sounded out both the London and New York markets. That was at a time when the pound sterling had moved up almost to a par with the Canadian dollar. Since that time, however, the pound receded in value in comparison with our dollar to such an extenent as to render a loan in England almost impossible.

C.P.R. PRESIDENT HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Pleased With Northern Tour in Company With Fellow Directors

To Remain Here One Day, Will Visit Sound Cities

President E. W. Beatty, K. C., with the party of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will arrive in Victoria on Wednesday morning. The party will stay here one day, and they will proceed to Seattle and Tacoma, planning to return to Vancouver on Friday.

On this occasion the presidential party is composed of Sir Herbert Holt, President of the Royal Bank, Sir Augustus Nanton, Chairman of the Hudson's Bay Company committee in Canada, and a director of the company, Commander J. K. L. Ross, the well-known capitalist and sportsman; F. W. Molson, W. N. Tilley, K. C. of Toronto, and D. C. Coleman, Vice-President in charge of Western lines.

They returned from the North yesterday, having had a pleasant round tour on the Princess Louise.

Mr. Beatty and the others in the party expressed themselves as greatly impressed with the scenic beauty of the British Columbia coast passage. Some of the directors had not made the trip before, and spoke with enthusiasm of the possibilities from a tourist standpoint. They state that perfect weather was enjoyed during the whole trip which took them as far north as Skagway and across to Carcross on the White Pass and Yukon Railway. The "Louise" called also at Juneau, Prince Rupert, Ocean Falls and Powell River.

The President will spend two days in Vancouver and on Tuesday night will address members of the Vancouver and Fraser Valley Boards of Trade on "Some of Canada's Problems."

England Would Send Large Number of Babies Out Here

Montreal, Sept. 24.—"If you have any homes for babies in Canada let us know and we will send them. We have an enormous number of babies in England and we only send sound and healthy babies of good stock who will become efficient members of society."

This is the message of Miss Clara Andrews, of London, England, founder and honorary director of the National Children's Adoption Association, who arrived in Montreal over the week-end. She left on Saturday for Vancouver, where she will open her campaign. She will tour Canada eastward from that city.

GASOLINE TAKES ANOTHER DROP

Gasoline this morning took another tumble, the Imperial, Shell and Union companies announcing simultaneously a reduction of 3 cents. The price of gasoline, formerly 31 cents a gallon, is now 28 cents.

IN THE WAKE OF FIRE AND EARTHQUAKE

BURNING POLICE BUREAU IN TOKIO

WRECKED STREET IN YOKOHAMA

Says Japan Must Establish New Building Code

John W. Doty, President of Foundation Company, Gives Idea of Reconstruction Problems in Japan

"The building code of Japan will have to be drastically revised to regulate the class of buildings erected before any definite steps can be taken towards the reconstruction of Tokio and Yokohama," said John W. Doty, president of the Foundation Company of New York, who reached here from the earthquake zone aboard the liner Empress of Australia.

Mr. Doty went to Japan in connection with a scheme for subway construction in Tokio, and he returned armed with a personal report of the Japanese disaster and events which followed it to the United States Government.

Surveyed Destroyed Zone

Mr. Doty made a survey of the destroyed sections of Tokio and Yokohama and had complete data to place before the American Government.

The building regulations in Japan are very lax, Mr. Doty stated, as outside of the more modern blocks, the buildings of the destroyed cities were of frame and flimsy construction.

Type of Building Needed

Asked as to his opinion regarding the best type of building to resist the ravages of earthquakes in Japan, Mr. Doty was not keen to elaborate on the subject, but admitted that the best type was the building of steel and reinforced concrete construction not exceeding one hundred feet in height, or from three to four stories. Mr. Doty had several conferences with Home Secretary Goto, who will have charge of all reconstruction work undertaken in Japana. Japan, he considers, will take immediate steps to float a loan for reconstruction purposes.

Estimate of Dead

Mr. Doty has tabulated a complete list of the "white" dead in the earthquake zone. He estimated there are 126 Europeans or Americans dead and forty missing. He figures the total dead in the zone at 250,000.

An estimate of the property damage he was unable to give, so colossal was the effect of the disaster.

PROSPECTIVE BRIDES ON WAY TO PRAIRIES

Seventeen Reach Montreal During Week-End

Montreal, Sept. 24.—No less than seventeen prospective brides were among the passengers who disembarked from the steamship Regina, which was one of four liners to dock here over the week-end from trans-Atlantic ports. The party, some English and some Scottish, were all en route for the prairie provinces, where their fiances are awaiting them. They left Montreal for the West to-night.

TO HEAR REPORT ON ASSASSINATION OF BOUNDARY MEMBERS

Paris, Sept. 24—The report of the inter-allied investigation commission into the assassination of the Italian members of the Albanian boundary commission has reached the secretariat of the Council of Ambassadors. The council will meet to-day to discuss the report.

BULGARIAN TROOPS QUELL REBELLION

Two of Communist Leaders Commit Suicide and Men Surrender

Sofia, Sept. 24.—The general situation in Bulgaria shows a marked improvement. A few isolated cases of rebellion are still being reported, but these are regarded as unimportant.

Troops supported by the population have restored order in certain villages of the Kazanlyk region where a Soviet regime was declared.

Commit Suicide

A band of fifty communists which had been attacked at Rosovo, South of Kazanlyk fled into the mountains, where it finally surrendered. The two chiefs committed suicide, and their men gave up their arms.

Paris, Sept. 23.—A Havas dispatch from Sofia, dated Saturday, said the Bulgarian chamber of deputies was dissolved by royal decree. The dispatch added that the date of the elections had not been fixed, but under the constitution, these would take place within two months of the dissolution of the chamber.

DECKS SWARMED WITH AN HETEROGENEOUS MASS OF SUFFERING QUAKE VICTIMS

R.M.S. Empress of Australia, Clearing House For Thousands of Sufferers in Japanese Disaster, Brought Back to Port By Heroic Officers; Captain S. Robinson Outstanding Figure in Greatest Calamity of Modern Times

FOUR THOUSAND INJURED AND HOMELESS GIVEN RELIEF ON BOARD

Ten Thousand Meals Were Served on Board Ship Within Thirty-six Hours As Refugees Swarmed Over the Side in Yokohama Harbor

When the history of the Japanese cataclysm is written full tribute will be paid to Capt. Samuel Robinson and the officers and crew of the liner Empress of Australia for the magnificent part taken by the ship and her complement in the relief of human suffering in one of the greatest disasters of history.

"We merely did our duty," said Captain Robinson when a score of newspapermen raided the bridge in quarantine as the Empress of Australia completed the most sensational voyage of her career.

The commodore of the Canadian Pacific fleet on the Pacific is a man of few words and modest in the extreme. When it comes to action, especially in an emergency, he is a human dynamo.

Hero of Disaster

The skipper of the Empress of Australia stands out as the hero of the Japanese earthquake. His staff of officers are not less heroic for their unselfish work in giving succor to the thousands of homeless people who came to look upon the ship as a haven of refuge.

Four thousand distracted refugees, many of them burned and mangled, sought refuge and were given shelter. The injured were given the best of attention under the worst possible circumstances. The officers manned the ship's boats and went out, without thought of danger to themselves, to pick up the homeless and put them aboard the floating city.

Ten Thousand Meals

Within a period of thirty-six hours ten thousand meals had been served to ravenous people who had been figuratively hurled by the earth's convulsion aboard the refugee ship. It was a heart-rending picture. People were strewn all over the decks and the staterooms and public saloons were overcrowded with suffering humanity.

For nine days the Empress of Australia assumed the role of relief ship. Heroic work was done in the alleviation of suffering. Gripping scenes were enacted in real life when members of families were reunited out of the flotsam and jetsam of the upheaval.

The presence of the Empress of Australia in Yokohama harbor undoubtedly saved thousands of lives. Surrounded by fire, the great ship with its human freight was constantly in peril, but the resourcefulness of her veteran skipper saved the situation.

An Appreciation

Passengers arriving here Sunday by the liner were loud in their praise of Captain Samuel Robinson. The regard of the passengers for the commander is shown in the following testimonial drawn up and presented at the termination of the voyage:

"Commander S. Robinson, R.N.R., R.M.S. Empress of Australia.

Sir,—The British refugees and passengers desire to express their intense admiration and pride in your handling of the many difficult and dangerous situations that arose during the whole period of the recent terrible catastrophe in Yokohama, in which the traditions of the British Mercantile Marine service have been maintained.

The conduct of the officers and men under your command was admirable.

We owe to you our lives, and words are entirely inadequate to express our thanks and gratitude."

Tablet for Ship

During the voyage it was suggested that, in order to put on record the magnificent part taken by the Empress of Australia in the work of rescue and relief, a tablet be presented to the commander to be affixed to the ship in which reference would be made respecting the gallant work accomplished by the officers and crew. A committee composed of Messrs. John W. Doty, J. R. Flint, A. B. Dahl, F. G. Noble, G. C. Carvell and A. C. Lofts was formed for the purpose, and subscriptions readily flowed in.

A draft of the commemoration tablet to be presented to the Empress of Australia by the ship's passengers is as follows:

"Presented to the R.M.S. Australia by the passengers to commemorate the heroic work performed by Commander S. Robinson, R.N.R., and all officers and crew in saving the lives of all on board and rescuing survivors of the earthquake and fire which devastated the district of Yokohama September 1, 1923. This ship, for nine days a veritable 'haven of refuge,' sheltered succored thousands of homeless and wounded."

In the matter of the commemoration brass tablet, which will be affixed in a prominent position in the ship, the committee is taking the proposal up with E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is now on the coast.

It was generally understood aboard the ship that the Japanese Government proposes to decorate Captain Robinson for his magnificent part in the ghastly drama of Yokohama.

To the commander of the Empress of Australia, however, it is all in the day's work. The traditions of the sea were upheld. The cynosure of all eyes and the target of clicking cameras and reeling motion picture machines, Captain Robinson grimly shook hands with Captain Edward Beetham, superintendent of Canadian Pacific steamships on the Pacific, and modestly pointed to "Ref," a spaniel who now makes the big ship his permanent home.

No. 2650

All that "Ref" is known by is a tag on his collar giving No. 2650. Just how he got aboard the ship at Yokohama no one really knows, but he is a honest-to-goodness refugee.

Claxton's Exploit

The story is told on the Empress of Australia of the daring exploit of First Officer C. Claxton, who was responsible for the saving of many lives. Under instructions from the bridge, First Officer Claxton took charge of a small tanker and set out to pick up refugees. Before the vessel had made much headway she blew up, but Claxton and his crew managed to reach safety.

Like Terrier Shaking Rat

The effect on the 21,000-ton liner Empress of Australia when the earthquake occurred was described by Captain Robinson as like a "terrier shaking a rat." The giant ship shivered from stem to stern, and it was feared that the stays might give and cause the huge funnels to collapse. "Everybody was thrown to the deck," commented Purser J. Chisholm, "and when they picked themselves up they were thrown down again."

On shore people were seen to be swallowed up by the earth.

Nothing Too Good

"There is nothing too good for Captain Robinson in this world," declared J. R. Flint, of the Consolidated Distilleries, of Montreal, in relating the story of the wonderful work performed by the Empress of Australia's commander.

Mr. Flint is well known in Victoria and Vancouver. He is the holder of what is probably the last receipt for a bill signed by the management of the Grand Hotel at Yokohama.

Three Were Taken

On the night before the earthquake, Mr. Flint gave a little dinner party to five friends. Three of them, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Markell of Sydney, and Captain McDonald, president of the Grand Hotel, were killed in the earthquake.

Mrs. Barnard and Miss Wicke, the other members of the party, were shopping when the store building fell and they miraculously escaped from the falling structure. They went to San Francisco on the steamship President Pierce.

Brave Little Girls

There were two brave little girls on board the Empress of Australia. They were the Misses Getrude and Betty Hudson, aged twelve and eight respectively. They were met on board by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lamb, of Seattle, Mrs. Lamb being aunt to the girls.

Betty does not know how she escaped, at least she hasn't a very clear conception of what happened after the earth began to rock beneath her feet.

The Hudson family were on the steamship Korea Maru, and Mr. Hudson had taken his two daughters ashore on a shopping tour, Mrs. Hudson staying on the ship.

The collapse of a building pinned Mr. Hudson to the pavement, and his leg had to be amputated below the knee. He was left behind in hospital in Japan, and Mrs. Hudson stayed to look after her husband.

Mrs. Babbitt

Prostrated with grief over the death of her daughter in the wreck of the Grand Hotel, Yokohama, Mrs E. G. Babbitt was landed here in a stretcher. She was accompanied by her husband and another daughter who escaped the earthquake horror Mrs. Babbitt and her two children were in the Grand Hotel, leading

POINCARE SHUNS A PRECARIOUS PEACE

Germany Must Discard Imperialistic Habits, Says French Premier

Toul, Sept. 24.—In unveiling a war monument at Toul yesterday, Premier Poincare asserted that during the period from 1871 to 1914 there was no real peace and normal relations between France and Germany. France now has determined that Germany shall not revive such a precarious peace, must rid herself of old imperialistic habits, realize the wrong she has done and sincerely resolve to repair it.

"Germany naturally is one of the richest countries in the world," said the Premier. "What Germany lacks is not capacity to pay but the sincere desire to pay."

TWO MEN DIE IN MOLTEN METAL FLOOD

Hamilton Men Meet Terrible End When Furnace Collapses

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 24—Two men, Nick Martovy and Melville Moon, met horrible deaths and Hector Furino was seriously injured Saturday night at the plant of the Abrasive Company of Canada, Ltd., here when the bottom of a metal furnace suddenly collapsed. The men were caught in a flood of molten metal. They were working beneath the metal pot and there was no escape.

OBITUARY

The funeral of the late Patrick Walsh took place this morning at 8.45 from the B.C. Funeral Chapel. The cortege proceeded to St. Andrew's Cathedral for the High Mass and funeral service, which were conducted by Rev. Father Wood. Father Leterme officiated later at the graveside, and a large attendance of friends were present to pay their last tribute of respect. The pallbearers were: Messrs. J. Hourigan, J. Grennan, C. Coleman, J. A. McLellan, M. Finnerty and J. Walsh. Interment was made in the family plot at Ross Bay.

The death occurred early yesterday morning, at the residence, 843 Fort Street, of Rufus Dale, thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dale. The deceased, who was born in London, England, is survived by his parents, three sisters and two brothers. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon, leaving the B. C. Funeral Chapel at 3.45 o'clock, and service will be conducted at Christ Church Cathedral by Very Rev. Dean Quainton prior to the interment at Ross Bay.

COUNCIL WILL FACE LIVELY AGENDA

Lease of Willows; Tax Collection and Legislation to Receive Attention

Supporters of Monthly Tax Collection to Make Last Stand

An agenda paper bristling with contentious matters will face the City Council in session to-night. Through a coincidental grouping of matters which time and necessity will force on the council for discussion to-night several of the most keenly debated questions of the day will arise.

To-night, for instance, the council will be asked to consider the question of a five-year lease asked by the B.C. Agricultural Association of the Willows grounds. The city's mind as to the monthly payment plan of tax collection in 1924 will have to be made, it is stated, to-night.

If the city wishes to stand by the enactment secured in its private bill last year, monthly tax collection will go into force next year. On the other hand, a strong section of the council regard the change as ruinous, and seek its repeal in the private bill this year.

What the city actually wants in the way of legislation this year will be another point for discussion this evening. In a report from the Legislative Committee will be raised the question of whether or not the city wishes to have extended its powers to increase license fees, where the council may deem the present scale inequitable. Appended to the Legislative Committee's report is the monthly tax collection plan, without, however, any recommendation. The report closes with the general draft of routine changes the city needs to speed up its business in several departments.

To The Times to-day Mayor Hayward, speaking of the monthly payment of taxes plan slated for next year, characterized it as a jump by the council of last year over intervening stages to a goal direct. Dr. Adam Shortt contemplated advancing the date of collection by easy stages every year until finally taxes could be collected at the first of the year. The council of last year, however, jumped to the goal at once, and obtained power to make collections in ten monthly instalments.

"Under the old system, as now in force, over $200,000 in prepaid taxes will be received by the city this year. The interest paying plan does not make money for the city, but it saves the taxpayer and it reduces the loan at the bank. The monthly payment plan would mean a rearrangement of the entire treasury department. It would mean a congestion at the end of every month similar to that on the last date taxes are due under the old system. It would mean an increase in staff and cost of administration. The impression is strong that the present system of payment of taxes in advance would give admirable results if it were more widely known and understood," concluded the Mayor.

In speaking of the lease requested by the B.C. Agricultural Association, Mayor Hayward expressed himself as curious to know what the applicants would have to advance in support of the request for a further five year term. "Personally I think the lease should be an annual arrangement. The Agricultural Association has not lived up to the terms of the contract this year. They were to fix up the grounds for football and other sports. They have fixed up the track a bit, I suppose, but they have not lived up fully to the terms of the contract," concluded the Mayor.

FATHER IS KILLED IN AEROPLANE CRASH

Seven-Year-Old Son and Pilot Injured

International Falls, Minn., Sept. 24—Ted Ross, 42, proprietor of the Palace Hotel, Fort Frances, Ont., was killed, anl his seven-year-old son and Lieut. Winston Hitt, pilot, injured in an airplane crash here yesterday. Mr. Ross and his son on a trip over the city became excited when the machine began to ascend, jamming the mechanism with their feet when the plane was five hundred feet in the air. After traveling about 350 feet the motor went dead and the plane crashed on the bank of Rainy River, near the international bridge.

MARQUIS OF RIPON PASSES SUDDENLY

Dies While Shooting on Yorkshire Estate

London, Sept. 24.—The Marquis of Ripon (Frederick Oliver Robinson), died suddenly Saturday while out shooting at Studley Royal, his Yorkshire estate. He was the eldest son of the first Marquis of Ripon and had been treasurer in the household of Dowager Queen Alexandra since 1901. His countess, who was the widow of the fourth Earl of Lonsdale, died in 1917. He leaves no heir.

RED CROSS REPORTS NO FRESH CASES

Although the Red Cross were prepared to handle any additional refugee cases which might be landed in Victoria, there were none on board the Empress of Australia who desired assistance at this point. The two stretcher cases, both of whom are women, were taken on to Vancouver to be put in hospital there. When they are discharged they will be in the hands of the Red Cross as they are indigents and must be provided for.

Mrs. Fleming and her assistants have eighteen refugees still at the Quarantine Station whom they are looking after.

Boris Bardacke, the refugee who arrived on board the Empress of Asia, has left for Montreal, the Red Cross assisting him to get transportation and passports. He expects to secure a position there in the Oriental importing business.

LIGHTNING CAUSES BALLOONISTS' DEATH

Death Toll in Brussels's Races Stands at Five

Fears Entertained For Ten Balloons in Terrific Storm

Brussels, Sept. 24—United States army balloon S-6, competing in the Gordon Bennett international race, was struck by lightning last evening and Lieuts. Olmstead and Choptaw, her occupants, were killed.

This was the third balloon to be destroyed in the race. Five aeronauts have been killed.

The S-6 was destroyed last evening near Nisteirode, province of North Brabant, in Holland, the Aero Club of Brussels officially announced to-day.

The United States navy balloon A-6699 has landed at Putten, Holland, near the Zuyder Zee. Lieuts. Lawrence and Reichelderfer, comprising her crew, are safe.

Another American contestant, the St. Louis, was unable to take part in the race. She burst before the start when the pressure on the anchor rope proved too strong.

G. Blanchet, piloting the Fernande III, a French entry, landed safely near Antwerp last night.

Two balloons, the United States navy A.—6699 and the Fernandez III., a French entry, piloted by G. Blanchet, were the only ones reported up to noon to-day as having landed safely.

In view of the terrific storm which broke out soon after the last balloon took off and raged until 10 o'clock last night, fears are entertained for the safety of the ten ballons not yet heard from.

Officials of the Brussels Aero Club, appalled by the accident, point out that they had advocated postponement of the race but found that the rules were inflixible. Members favor cancelling the competition altogether.

London, Sept. 24—The American seaplane entered for the seventh annual competition for the Schneider Cup on September 28 fell into the sea near Portsmouth during a trial flight to-day and was totally wrecked. The occupants were picked up unhurt.

NEWSPAPER WOMEN OF CANADA GATHER

Will Come to Victoria After Sessions in Vancouver

Special to The Times

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 24.—Newspaperwomen from every part of Canada assembled here this morning, under the presidency of Miss Lucy Doyle, of Toronto, for the third triennial convention of Canadian Women's Press Clubs. Practically every city in the Dominion is represented.

After three days of business and social activities here the women writers will go to Victoria for a couple of days. Extensive arrangements for their entertainment have been made by the local Press Clubs, the Kiwanis, Gyros and Lions' Clubs.

Among the delegates are Mrs. Emily Murphy, Mrs. Miriam Green Ellis, Edmonton; Miss Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa; Miss Merle Hall, Winnipeg; Miss Kennethe Haig, Winnipeg; Miss Annie Lowe, Miss Jessie Lowe, Ottawa; Miss G. Irene Todd, Brandon; Mrs. Nellie McClung, Calgary; Miss Dorothy Bell, formerly of Vancouver but now of Toronto; Mrs. Perrin Baker, Edmonton; Mrs. Anne Anderson Perry, Toronto; Miss Houston, Halifax; Miss May Clendennan, Winnipeg; Miss Mabel Burkholder, Hamilton; Mrs. Florence Randal Livesay, Toronto; Mrs. Jean Blewett, Toronto; Mrs. E. S. Archibald, Montreal; Mrs. J. M. Shenk, Fort William; Miss Marjory MacMurray, Toronto.

Miss Doyle, after referring to previous meetings, declared that "since we last met in West, Canada's women have sustained their greatest test in her history and the very status of our sex has been changed. To-day we are numbered among her citizens."

Proud of Achievements

No body of Canadian women reflects the decade's changed condition of our sex more vividly than does the C. W. P. C. Ten years ago we had members who had done what was generally supposed to be a man's work in newspapers. They were exceptions at which a public stood amazed. But look through our membership of nearly 400 to-day and you will see women who are filling every position on newspapers.

"If I have stressed the attainments of our newspaper members, I crave your pardon. That word 'press' is our club name and the very objects as set forth in our constitution seem to place that section uppermost. From seasoned editor to the indefatigable young reporters they abound. But our members are more and more realizing how wide a field our club embraces. It includes Canada's foremost women novelists, poets, special writers and artists in black and white, and publicity experts who have graduated from newspapers. Their achievements since our last triennial have filled us with much pride in feminine Canadian brains."

Women representing every branch of journalism and from all parts of the Dominion, gathered for the opening session. The 200 members present included two women judges, a member of Parliament and the parliamentary secretary of a Cabinet minister.

Miss Lucy Doyle, national president, better known as "Cornelia," of The Toronto Telegram, presided.

Mrs. E. M. Cuppage welcomed the delegates in the unavoidable absence of Mrs. Holt-Murison, Provincial vice-president, Mrs. M. E. Lawrence, of St. John, N.B., replying on behalf of the visiting delegates.

BALLOON ROSE TO SIX-MILE ALTITUDE

Toronto, Sept. 24—The meteorological recording instrument attached to the four balloons, each lifting four and a half ounces, which were released at the Canadian National Exhibition on September 6, has been found near Cobourg. The instrument records that it rose to an altitude of about six miles and that a temperature of thirty-one degrees below zero was registered. At a height of 20,000 feet the temperature was seven above zero.

LONDON PAPERS FEATURE PREMIERS

Pictures and Biographical Notes Fill Columns

London, Sept. 24 (Canadian Press Cable)—London newspapers are beginning to assume the appearance of picture galleries with the portraits they are publishing of the Premiers of the various Dominions coming to attend the Imperial Conference. Besides, the papers are publishing lists of the delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference, with biographical notes and interesting comment.

Thus, a foretaste is being given of the big dual event which in a few days assuredly will oust the Anglo-French and other current topics from the premier place they have been holding.

Free Trade

With reference to editorial comment on the coming conference the Liberal newspapers seem to show more concern than the others, the reason being fear for the safety of their cherished tenet of free trade.

The Liberal Westminster Gazette sees the happiest augury in the personality of the Dominion participants in the conferences, and especially cites Premier Smuts, of South Africa, as standing for peaceful evolution, and says his "dominating figure" will replace that of the "inflated figure" of former Premier Hughes, of Australia.

Encourages Hope

Premier Mackenzie King's mood also encourages the hope that the progressive forces will be uppermost, The Gazette says, and it refers to the fact that another milestone will be marked by the attendance of William T. Cosgrave, president of the Irish Free State.

Nevertheless, The Gazette sees stormy clouds, especially in connection with the resolution which is to be moved by Premier Bruce, of Australia, in favor of preference tariff, and declares that Premiers Smuts and King fortunately realize that this is an internal question for the British Premier to decide.

The Daily Chronicle, a strong supporter of Lloyd George, says:

"We have traveled far since Winston Churchill banged, barred and bolted the door against a preference tariff. Maybe that battle will have to be fought over again in different circumstances with other weapons. Lut we must not be rushed into desperate remedies before we reckon the cost."

RUMORED CURZON LIKELY TO RETIRE

May Feel Position Embarrassed by Paris-Ruhr Conversations

London, Sept. 24.—The ministerial vacations are at an end and the cabinet ministers this week begin to face many important problems, both international and domestic. Discussions among the various ministers to-day and to-morrow will be followed on Wednesday by a meeting of the cabinet with regard to which there is much speculation, as it is generally supposed the session will be concerned mainly with the relations between France and Great Britain over the reparations question. It is supposed that Mr. Baldwin will communicate to his colleagues at Wednesday's cabinet meeting the results of his talk with Premier Poincare.

May Await Conference

The whole problem is recognized as being so delicate that according to The Daily Telegraph's diplomatic expert "it is highly doubtful whether any decisions will be taken by the cabinet until the matter has been debated with the Dominion premiers at the Imperial Conference which opens in London at the beginning of October."

In quarters where it is believed that Mr. Baldwin has virtually adopted the French attitude toward the Ruhr question, a rumor has been started that Lord Curzon is likely to retire from the Foreign Office, feeling that his position has been embarrassed as a result of the Paris conversation, but of this there is no sort of confirmation.

Serious Problems

Among the other serious problems the government has to deal with are increasing unemployment and the consequential industrial unrest, also the position of agriculture and the demand of the farmers for fiscal changes to meet their growing difficulties.

STREET RAILWAY MEN MAY FORCE ISSUE

Express Determination to Get Something in Response to Demands

Vancouver, Sept. 24.—Determination to force the issue if need be was expressed by the advisory board of the Street Railwaymen's Union at a meeting held this morning.

The advisory board comprises seven members, three from Vancouver, two from New Westminster and two from Victoria. Their names are: Messrs. W. H. Cottrell, chairman of the union; F. A. Hoover and F. E. Griffin, Vancouver; A. J. Bond and R. C. Higgins, New Westminster; and Richard Pettierew and W. H. Gibson, Victoria. The whole situation was considered and a line of action decided on.

Mr. Cottrell left the meeting to attend a session of the conciliation board in Mr. A. M. Pound's office. Nothing was given out officially by the advisory board, but the members were emphatic that it was their determination to get something in respone to the demands they made before the conciliation board.

"Strike talk is prevalent," said one of the members, "but at the same time it is the hope of everyone that we may be able to ayert that."

REVERSES DECISION AGAINST ENGINEERS

Manitoba Court Upsets Judgment Declaring Organization Illegal

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—By unanimous decision, the Manitoba Court of Appeal to-day reversed the decision of Mr. Justice Galt, delivered last March, wherein he declared that "the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers," an illegal organization operating in restraint of trade, and as such barred them from going to the courts to obtain redress.

The trial judge's judgment was upon the fact that the Brotherhood was not registered in Canada under the Trades Union Act. Under the appeal granted by the court, it is contended that on the pleadings and evidence placed before the court, it should not be held, in the present conditifon of the law, that this union is an "organization so tainted with illegality that the court will not lend its assistance to recover trust moneys of the union, unjustifiably withheld by its late treasurer.

In handing down the decision Chief Justice Perdue said he would apply the appeal and set aside the non-suit and would enter judgment against the defendant for the amount found due by the master, namely, the sum of $3,743.63. The plaintiffs will be entitled to their costs in the court of King's Bench and to the costs of the appeal to this court.

BAND AND PARADE LAUNCH SERVICE OF YELLOW CABS

C. T. Cross and Joseph Patrick First Passengers; Other Motorists Join in

Yellow cabs made their formal bow to Victoria Saturday afternoon when the taxicab service was inaugurated with a street parade of the first units of the Yellow Cab fleet headed by a band playing in a sightseeing car.

H. B. "Barney" Olson, manager and proprietor of the Yellow Cab Co., who introduced the modern, big city, taximetered means of motor transportation to Victoria was in one of the cars at the head of the procession.

A large number of operators of untaximetered rent cars joined in the procession of welcome to the Yellow cabs. With their horns going, and stretching out for three or four blocks behind the band they created considerable stir in the downtown part of the city.

Following the parade, special police had to be put on the job to keep Yates Street clear in front of the Yellow Cab Stand where persons gathered to inspect the new vehicles.

The cabs were kept very busy all Saturday night and yesterday. Mr. Olson said to-day that the taxicabs were proving popular because of the low taximetered rates to persons who required transportation home after the street cars had stopped at midnigth.

C. T. Cross, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Joseph Patrick, president of the Publicity Bureau, formally inaugurated the Yellow Cab service from the Empress Hotel. They were the first passengers to be handled by the service.

Montreal, Sept. 24—Canadian Pacific Railway earnings week ending September 21 were $4,021,000, a decrease of $269,000.

Yellow Cab

Seeks to lower rates

YELLOW CAB methods offer an interesting study in these days of uncertain values and fluctuating prices.

At every possible opportunity YELLOW CAB rates are revised; sometimes despite increasing costs of operation. The public secures the benefit.

Two things make this possible. First is the highly organized YELLOW CAB system with up-to-date efficient equipment. The second is volume of business.

The people of Victoria will never have cause to complain of YELLOW CAB rates. Inversely as patronage increases, rates decrease. This is a fundamental YELLOW CAB principle and practice and works almost automatically.

Our request for your cab business is based on the simplest of propositions—the best transportation for the least money.

WESTERN PRESS IS FLAYED BY MEIGHEN

Deplores Attitude Toward Conservative Party

Prince Albert, Sask., Sept. 24.—The King Government was subjected to further criticism by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative party, in a speech here on Saturday night. Mr. Meighen dealt with the government's "twenty months of casual procrastination and incapacity to get anywhere." He also attacked the Western press for its attitude toward the Conservative party.

The Government's tariff policy and wheat board legislation were also strongly criticized. Mr. Meighen blessed the proposed voluntary wheat pool, hoping it would be successful. The farmers had been abandoned by the Government and had been driven to finding some method to help themselves, he said.

The present royal grain enquiry commission was doing lots of "toddling," but little else, he said, and he would not be surprised to hear next that it proposed to visit Australia.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS SASKATOON TRAGEDY

Company Director Dies From Rifle Bullet

Saskatoon, Sas., Sept. 24.—Carl Ide, of Kitchener, Ont., was shot and instantly killed Sunday morning at Dana, Sask., by a bullet from a .22-calibre rifle in the hands of, it is alleged, J. Doe, general manager of the plant, in circumstances which are to-night shrouded in mystery. Mr. Ide was a director of Salts and Chemicals, Ltd., one of the largest chemical firms in Canada.

Officials at the plant refuse to talk of the tragedy, and will not say who fiend the fatal shot.

Kitchener, Ont., Sept. 24.—Word was received here to-day that Carl Ide was accidentally shot and killed while hunting in Saskatoon. Messages received by W. G. Weichel, M.L.A., a director in the Salts and Chemicals, Ltd., of which Ide was manager, stated that Ide was shot while hunting with J. Doe, who is superintendent of the western plant of the company.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES RE-ELECT PRESIDENT

Pointed to as Contradiction of Dissension Rumors

Calgary, Sept. 24.—A. R. Mosher, of Ottawa, was re-elected president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees at the concluding session of the biennial convention Saturday evening. Murdock McLeod, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., was re-elected vice-president, and M. M. MacLean, of Ottawa, re-elected secretary-treasurer. The entire executive board was re-elected in a body. Delegates to the convention stated last night that the re-election of the old officers was striking proof that rumors to the effect that there was dissension in the ranks of the Brotherhood were absolutely unfounded.

Toronto was chosen as the next meeting place and the Dominion convention will be held there in 1925.

The Shawinigan Falls Convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities

By ALDERMAN E. S. WOODWARD, fourth vice-president of the Union

Official Delegate of the Victoria City Council

The Times has been good enough to request me to give my impressions of the Shawinigan Falls Convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, which I attended as the delegate of the Victoria City Council.

Shawinigan Falls is a city of a 12,000 people situated on the St. Maurice River—a tributary of the St. Lawrence. It depends entirely for its existence upon the operations of the Shawinigan Water and Power Co.; and such other companies as depend upon the former for their motive power. These include Canadian Carbide Co.; Northern Aluminum Co.; Belgo Pulp and Paper Co.; Shawinigan Kniting Co.; Canadian and Amercian Electro Products Co.; Canadian Aloxite Co., and Canadian Ferro-Alloys Co. Fifty per cent of the power developed at Shawinigan is consumed locally and the remainder is transmitted to Grand Mere, Three Rivers, Montreal and numerous other industrial communities which have sprung into being, or into newness of life, as a result of the operations of the Power Company.

The Convention City

Shawinigan Falls was well chosen as the convention city of the Union of Canadian Municipalities. It has much to teach municipal representatives, particularly those who come from the Canadian West. A city that has a tax rate of eleven and a half mills only and a bonded indebtedness of but one-and-a-half millions is surely worthy of the attention of those who reside in cities having a tax rate of forty-fifty mills and a bonded indebtedness of twenty-five per cent of the total valuation. Briefly stated, these lessons are:

1. Don't rashly incur debt.
2. Pay as you go.
3. Meet all demands for civic services with a frank statement of cost.
4. Refuse all services which the citizens are not willing to pay for currently.

A bad collision, involving unfortunately serious loss of life, dislocated the train service on the Canadian National and caused Western delegates to arrive too late for the opening session of the convention. We wired ahead, however, and secured delay of all important business and adequate representation on committees. It should be explained that the business of the Union is transacted almost entirely in committee, and that the open sessions of the convention are devoted almost exclusively to papers by well-known experts on municipal problems. This arrangement was severely criticized by Victoria delegates in 1922—at which time inadequate backing was forthcoming from other delegates to effect a change on the ground that the business of the Union is the concern of all affiliated municipalities. This year Victoria's viewpoint was endorsed almost unanimously, and the incoming executive was instructed by resolution to devote the first day of future conventions to the transaction of business and to provide more time for the discussion of such papers as are read to the delegates.

The papers of most interest and of most practical value were those dealing with Municipal Finance and with City Manager-Council government, the latter read by the city manager of Grand Mere.

There are at present 321 cities living under this system of which eleven only are in Canada. Canadian cities operating under the plan are: Westmount, Outremount, Grand Mere, Shawinigan Falls, La Tuque, Chatham, Niagara Falls, Woodstock, Brandon, St. James and Wolfville. The largest city in the United States having a city manager is Cleveland, Ohio, with a population of 800,000. The total municipal population living under the system is stated to be 5,000,000. The syetem had its origin in the City of Staunton, Va., at the time of the flood in 1907. Private contractors estimated the damage at $4,000, and required this amount to perform the repair work. One of the councillors consulted an engineer friend, who estimated the cost of repairs at $700. The work was tcually accomplished by day labor under the control of a newly appointed manager for the sum of $650. That manager is now employed in a similar capacity by the City of Stockton at assalary of $20,000. The City of Dayton was the first large city to adopt the plan. In 1913 this city was visited by an appalling catastrohe. An avalanche of waters rushed down the valley in which the city is situated and swept everything before it. Property spared by the flood was destroyed by the uncontrolled fire which followed it. There was no law, no government, no one in authority. The citizens adopted military rule, formulated a brand new charter, offered to place Colonel Goethals in supreme control. This gentleman declined, but Henry M. Waites, Chief Engineer of Cincinnati, accepted and proceeded to give such beneficial results that the manager plan of civic government became popularized in all parts of the country.

Main Features of Council-Manager Plan

The plan draws a sharp distinction between the legislative and the administrative functions of civic administration. The legislative functions are performed by an elective council and the administrative functions are performed by an appointed manager. The council hires and supervises the city manager, who holds office ruring their pleasure, votes appropriations, passes by-laws, and generally interprets the wishes of the citizens in all matters of policy. The manager has no part in the formulation of policy and assumes no responsibility for the mistakes of the council. He is, however, held strictly accountable for the prompt and efficient execution of their mandates, for the city's interests in its dealing with public service corporations and other bodies, for the preparation and presentation of the annual budget, and for the legality of all expenditures. In many cities he is given full power to hire and dismiss employees, without reference to the council, including heads of departments. In other cities he exercises the right to hire and dismiss employees, subject to their right of appeal to the council. Advocates of the plan claim that only three of the 324 cities which have tried it have abandoned it by vote of the people, that it has promoted economy and efficiency, that it almost invaritably reduces the tax rate, that it has eliminated patronage and elevated the standard of public life, and that it is destined to supplant all other forms of civic government in all parts of the country.

Weaknesses of the Council-Manager Plan

The short discussion of the plan on the floor of the convention drew forth the following criticism.

1. No manager should be given the right to appoint and dismiss other officials. A manager might, with insufficient local knowledge and experience, dismiss well-tried civic officals solely because of temperamental incompatibility.

2. The appointment of a manager with well-nigh absolute powers must tend to decrease the knowledge, the interest, and the control of city councils. Individual members of city councils will inevitably subordinate their own opinions, convictions, and judgments to those of the manager who is being held responsible for results. Thus in practice, if not in theory, the manager will hold the position of a dictator, even in the legislative field. And in as much as it will require several years before the results of any man's work can be fairly judged, the city may in the meantime have been committed to major errors in engineering construction, purchase of expensive equipment, dismissal of well-tried employees, and in general administration. This inevitable tendency on the part of councils so surrender their powers and sense of responsibility and to shift responsibility on to the manager is in the opinion of many quite sufficient to condemn the council-manager plan of civic administration.

The Present Weakness

3. The council-manager plan fails to deal with the chief weakness in the present system, i.e., the lack of knowledge of civis matters possessed by the average alderman, caused by the necessity imposed upon him of giving most of his time to his own business and devoting spare time only to civic well-being. The remedy for this lies, not in increasing the number of civic officials, but in securing a better type of elected representative. This involves adequate payment of aldermen for whole-time services and a consequent increase of knowledge of civic problems, closer scrutiny of civic contracts and undertakings, and the adoption of wiser policies.

The resolution submitted by the Victoria City Council favoring the centralization of income-tax collectio nand its equitable distribution amongst the Federal, Provincial and Municipal governing bodies was endorsed as was also the resolution calling upon the Federal Government to assume full responsibility for unemployment. The convention also demanded municipal relief from the stamp and receipt taxes and instructed its incoming executive to make effective these demands to the limit of its ability. The fact that these important resolutions could only be reported by the committee in the dying hours of the convention on Saturday morning will indicate the desirability for the change of programme ordered for next year.

In my capacity as representative of the City of Victoria I took a prominent part in the affairs of the convention and had the satisfaction of receiving the commendation of the officers and members of the convention as well as the press. I have since received a letter from the new president, Dr. J. A. DuFresne, Mayor of Shawinigan Falls—thanking me for my active share in discharging the business of the union. One of the Montreal papers made mention that Alderman Woodward, of Victoria, threw pep into the proceedings. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Vice-presidents—Mayor Planta of Ottawa, first vice-president; Mayor Duggan of Edmonton, second vice-president; the Mayor of Halifax, Nova Scotia, third vice-president; Alderman E. S. Woodward, Victoria, B. C., fourth vice-president.

The selection of the convention city for 1923 was referred to the incoming executive. I extended on behalf of the Victoria City Council its invitation to Victoria, but I did not unduly press the claim in view of the fatc that the Far East has not been visited during recent years, and in view of the equal claims of other cities. I think, however, I succeeded in leaving the impression that Victoria is pre-eminently a convention city with a warm welcome to all who honor her with a visit.

Parks and Boulevards

On my return journey I visited Chicago, Napierville, Moose Jaw and other cities, and kept my eyes and ears open for new ideas and improved methods of civic administration. I was impressed with the beauty of the trees, avenues and boulevards of Chicago and neighboring cities where the trees are allowed to make more growth than in Victoria. Interference of trees with telegraph and telephone wires—the chief difficulty in Victoria—is obviated in part by carrying wires down lanes instead of along the streets and in part by raising wires to great heights, out of reach of the trees. If the co-operation of public service companies can be secured in Victoria the institution of similar methods will achieve similar results. The boulevards or parking strips in all other cities which I was able to visit suffer in comparison with Victoria inasmuch as their care is left to the owners alongside. Negligence on the part of an alongside owner results in the marring of the beauty of the whole street. One careful owner spends time and energy in keeping his portion carefully watered and trimmed, while alongside him is a vacant lot the owner of which pays no attention to the strip in front of his property. Victoria's system of entrusting the care of boulevards to the parks and boulevards department and charging the cost to the abutting owners is incomparably superior.

It was my privilege to travel with Councillor Joseph Morris of Point Grey and Mayor Hardie of Lethbridge and to co-operate with them in securing adequate consideration of Western problems. The former laid great emphasis on the necessity of conducting the union's business on the budget plan and was able to secure general support. Councillor Morris is attacking the problem of municipal debts from an entirely new angle and is about to seek legislative approval for his plan. Briefly stated, his idea is that a municipality should be zoned for the purpose of constructing civic improvements and that the cost of such works should be charged to the zone in which the improvement is made. The plan is in reality a development of the local improvement idea. Instead, however, of the full cost of the work being charged to the owners immediately abutting, it is spread over the whole of the area benefited; and instead of the bonds carrying the endorsation of the corporation as a whole they are secured solely and entirely on the property of the people demanding the improvement. The general adoption of this plan would, it is claimed, reduce the general indebtedness of municipalities and lead to stricter scrutiny of proposed schemes of development.

During my stay in Vancouver I was invited by the parks board to inspect the parks and boulevards system. My general impression of the visit of inspection is that Vancouver is wisely providing ample accommodation for sports and pastimes. It has constructed numerous facilities for football, cricket, tennis, bowls, baseball, physical culture, etc., far beyond anything attempting in this city. Some of the best equipped of these grounds have been provided through the instrumentality of the Gyro Club and similar institutions, and it is my intention to seek similar co-operation from the local clubs with the same object in view.

BRAVERY

RUSSELL DENNIS

Kansas City—Bravery is its own reward, it is true. But it has other regards for Russell Dennis, Boy Scout. The late President Harding presented several heroism medals to scouts, among them Russell.

Young Dennis recently saw fire flash up and envelope Margaret Clark, a little girl who lived nearby. She had been playing with matches. Having nothing to throw about her, he put out the blaze with his bare hands. He suffered severe burns. The girl died three days later, but the scout was no less a hero. He had done all he could.

If the car starts with a jerky motion, owing to a "fierce clutch" and you have no time to correct it just then, try starting on second speed instead of first. As this throws more load on the engine the jerky action will not be so apparent.

Special to The Times

Metchosin, Sept. 24.—The monthly meeting of the Diocesan Board of the W.A. was held by invitation of the Metchosin Branch of the organization, at Metchosin, Friday.

The visitors, numbering ninety-six in all, arrived at Metchosin in three large tally-ho's and were received by officers and members of the Metchosin Branch, at the hall.

An address of welcome was given by the President, Mrs. W. Arden, and a scripture lesson was read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Altree Coley.

Divine Service was held in St. Mary's Church by the Rev. F. Comley, vicar of the parish, at which all visitors and members were present.

Addresses were given during the meetings by the Rev. John Antler, who was an unexpected, though very welcome visitor, Miss O'Brien, volunteer worker in the Alert Bay district, and Mrs. Ferryman, matron of the Alert Bay Girls' Home. A collection was taken up for the benefit of the Russian refugees at Shanghai, and a plea was made for a substantial collection for the refugees at present stationed at the William Head Quarantine Station.

Mrs. Belson, president of the Diocesan Board, and Mrs. (Bishop) Schofield with all other officers of the board were present, and a very interesting and enjoyable day was spent, the visitors being loud in their praise of the reception accorded them by the local branch.

Afternoon tea was served to the visitors before their departure for home.

Ground cork mixed with heavy grease is often used to advantage in rear wheel hub caps to reduce rattling of the axle shaft dog. Floating axles using driving dogs are noisy when worn. The cork in the grease will serve to reduce the noise.

THE DEATH OF LORD MORLEY

The passing of Lord Morley marks the closing of a career with which the political history of Britain has been intimately associated for more than half a century. And although it is nine years since a British Cabinet has been able to draw directly upon the judgment and guidance of this seasoned and able statesman the Upper Chamber has many times listened to his counsel and the pages of the reviews have borne frequent testimony to his virility of expression and his breadth of mind.

No library in a political household in Britain would be considered complete unless it contained John Morley's Life of Richard Cobden and his Life of Gladstone. These two works, outstanding in their exhaustive analysis of a brilliant ideal and an equally distinguished contemporary, are not only literary masterpieces and standard works in themselves, but they also constitute two distinct political histories that cover one of the most interesting periods in the evolution of British democracy. And if one desires to understand John Morley more intimately than would otherwise be possible his own Recollections mirror something of that incomparable personality for which the young member of the House was wont to nurse a peculiar fear—but which quickly melted when he learned that a seemingly cold and unsympathetic exterior merely thinly covered a nature that never failed to respond to the appeal of the less experienced.

One of the pleasant things about Lord Morley's life and his political associations was his genuine friendship for the late Joseph Chamberlain. Although the two were completely unalike in temperament and political outlook there always existed between them a sympathy of understanding and mutual regard that bridged the more material considerations which divided their individual conceptions of public policy.

To enumerate the late Lord Morley's services to his country is to recall the numerous ministerial positions to which he was appointed from time to time. As twice Secretary for Ireland under the Gladstone Governments in 1886 and again in 1892-95 he supported his chief on the Home Rule question. Largely through his instrumentality, by virtue of his opportunities as Secretary for India, the seeds of self-government in that part of the Empire were sown. Even as late as 1921, aged as he then was, he came out of his retirement and supported the negotiations that culminated in the Anglo-Irish Treaty.

It will be remembered that the late Lord Morley left active public life when he, together with Mr. John Burns and Mr. Masterman, retired from the Cabinet of Mr. Asquith after Great Britain had decided to go to war with Germany.

INSTANTANEOUS SUCCESS

Those gentlemen who sit behind mahogany desks in Montreal and concoct "whispers of death" are no doubt reclining in their upholstered opulence and wondering how in the world the people of this country can be so foolish as to fall over their feet in a hurry to subscribe to the new loan.

This is just what is taking place. We are back again in the enthusiastic days of Victory Loans. The man in the street is keeping pace with the large financial institutions. He has faith in Canada. He sees no single sign of decay and is prepared to put his dollar into the pot without qualm.

It is an excellent sign when the people who have to pay for most things that happen in any country, the people who are grumbling under a heavy burden of taxation, just literally jump at the chance to invest their own money in their own property. The instant success of Mr. Fielding's latest flotation means this.

DIVIDENDS AWAIT

British investors and British industrialists are being told through various agencies that very large dividends which might be earned by their own capital are going from Canada to the United States. It has been pointed out on numerous occasions that there is an enormous field in this country for the establishment of pulp and paper mills upon an exceedingly profitable basis.

While Canada is finding as much money as she possibly can in order that her own people may obtain a larger share of the advantages that flow from the more intensive development of her own property, it goes without saying that her population and industrial activity will not produce anything like the capital that should be employed in these important and obviously safe ventures.

At the present time this country is producing newsprint in annual quantities nearly as large as the combined total of the United States mills. Some nineteen establishments reported to the Newsprint Service Bureau that their production for June was 108,832 tons as compared with 133,692 tons from thirty-one mills in the country to the South. For the first six months of the current year Canadian mills produced 621,897 tons, as compared with 516,506 tons last year. United States mills produced 685,636 tons in the first six months of this year and 612,221 tons in the same period in 1922. The greater average capacity of the Canadian mills will be noted, nineteen mills closely approximating the output of the thirty-one mills in the United States. During the current year five new machines have been started in Canada, and only one across the line, giving an increased daily capacity of 365 tons per day in the Dominion, against an increase of only sixty tons in the United States.

These statistics furnish convincing evidence that this country should soon command a much greater market for its paper than that to which the United States will be able to appeal. For it is a fact that we have a tremendous stock of raw material from which to draw—a stock upon which our neighbors to the South are continually drawing for their own use and for manufacture for export to markets that may be secured and held by Canada as she increases her capacity to turn out the finished article. In this British capital should find lucrative employment.

Note and Comment

Germany is a long time making up her mind to advertise to the world that her policy of passive resistance is a complete failure. But she will have to admit it.

The Free State Government has released Dan Breen, "commandant-general of the republican army." He may just as well be at large as in prison, for he is the leader of a force that has already lain down its arms.

When the Associated Boards of Trade of British Columbia holds its annual convention it will hear something about the trans-provincial highway. Advocates of the Fraser-Canyon route and the Hope-Princeton route respectively intend to be on hand to debate their claims. Meanwhile the Minister of Public Works is getting engineering advice—upon which the issue will be decided.

The founder and honorary director of the National Children's Adoption Association, of London, England, has just arrived in Canada. She says that if "you have any homes for babies in Canada let us know and we will send them." This country would feel obliged if the lady in question would send a few adults who are willing to work and become good Canadians. These are the first needs of Canada.

Victorians will be glad to learn that Sir George Foster is coming back to deliver a public address on the League of Nations. No better exponent of that magnificent organization's aims and objects could be found in this country. Sir George knows and understands his subject—and thoroughly believes in it. Add his mastery of English and his perfect phrasing to this and his appeal will be understood.

Some Thoughts for To-day

I knew once a very covetous, sordid fellow

When he may have forgotten its cause.
Henry Ward Beecher.

Let no guilty man escape, if it can be avoided.
No personal consideration should stand in the way
Of performing a public duty.
Ulysses S. Grant.

Eloquence may be found in conversations
And in all kinds of writings; it is rarely found
When looked for, and sometimes discovered where it is least expected.

Our Contemporaries

TOO MUCH SELF PITY

Kansas City Star:—It is the easiest thing in the world for an individual, a class or a race to feel oppressed, discriminated against or victimized by some system or scheme deliberately wrought out. But the feeling is largely self-pity, which leads nowhere but to moodiness, bitterness and inaction. Self-interest demands that it be thrown off.

ONTARIO'S DEBT

Brockville Recorder and Times:—It remains true that Ontario's real tax burden is phenomenally light, and that by far the greater part of the large sums required to pay interest on what is loosely spoken of as the Provincial debt comes from the users of Hydro light and power and not from the general body of the taxpayers. Ontario's liabilities are very largely balanced by revenue-producing enterprises that are among its most valuable assets.

U. S. PARTY EMBLEMS

Brandon Sun:—To settle the oft-repeated query as to where the elephant and the donkey originated as symbols of the Republican and Democratic parties, the publishers of Harper's Magazine announces that they first appeared in their publication in November, 1874. Thomas Nast, illustrator and cartoonist, was at that time one of the staff of artists employed by Harper's. He got his idea from an article appearing in a New York newspaper, which described the escape of some animals from a city zoo. The two political parties were then, as usual, on the warpath, so he pictured them as frenzied animals escaped from a zoo.

Yokohama hostelry, when the first shock swept the Japanese seaport. The mother and one child escaped, but the other child was killed in the wreck of the building which was the tomb of nearly everyone who happened to be in it at the time of the quake.

Mrs. Babitt had been ill prior to the earthquake, and her terrible experience at the Grand Hotel completely broke her health.

Mr. Babbitt is connected with the United States Embassy at Tokio. They will stay with relatives in Victoria.

Graphic Tale

The overwhelming catastrophe was graphically described by A. C. Lofts, director of the Wilmot Manufacturing Company, Ltd., of Birmingham, England.

The Japanese Embassy, Mr. Lofts stated, gave as official a compilation of the dead and missing in the earthquake zone at 1,356,750. It was estimated that 200,000 people were homeless and 185,000 were estimated to have been killed, while 10,000 were put on board various ships in the harbor.

People to the number of 32,000 took refuge after the quake on a large piece of open land belonging to the Japanese army stores department, but the fires spread all around them, and they were hopelessly caught, only 200 escaping from being burned alive. Speaking of the wonderful work of Capt. Samuel Robinson and his officers, Mr. Lofts said: "The greatest possible praise is due to Commander S. Robinson and all the officers and crew, who worked day after day, heedless of food or rest. All the passengers on board have done their 'bit' towards the general relief in one form or another, the harmony has been perfect and repeated calls for volunteers for the many varied duties were instantly answered. Everyone of the survivors had the best of attention and food and were given the run of the ship, irespective of nationality or caste."

The stupendousness of the disaster and a conservative recital of the terrible happenings following the shocks which laid the port of Yokohama in ruins was told by Mr. Lofts as follows:

"We were due to sail at noon on Saturday, September 1 and by 11 a.m. we had several hundreds of visitors on board seeing off friends. By 11.45 a.m. all these people were off the ship and lined up on the wharf, several rows deep, facing the ship, giving their final cheers. At three minutes to noon our engineroom telegraph was heard and tugs were standing by to tow the ship from her berth at the wharf.

Sudden Roar

At two minutes to noon, and without the slightest warning, there was a sudden roar. The ship at once vibrated to an alarming degree, crushing and crunching against the side of the wharf. Many people were carried off their feet and amid the most appalling shrieks and screams the centre part of the wharf in front of us opened up and then fell away from the sides, swallowing up people.

Rickshaws, automobiles, horses, wagons and people were carried over the side. The warehouse and waiting-room building on the dock collapsed. Further along whole sections of the wharf disappeared in blocks. I looked along the front of the city and saw all the buildings, from one end to the other, disappear.

Like Pack of Cards

The Grand and Oriental Palace Hotels, the Club, the Hongkong and Shanghai and the International banks, in fact, every building collapsed like a pack of cards. Death, fortunately, must have been instantaneous to many thousands who were inside. The sound was deafening and dense clouds of smoke and dust covered all views from the ship.

Typhoon Sprang Up

To make things worse a typhoon wind sprang up and in a few minutes the whole of the city of Yokohama burst into a series of flames.

The ship's fire hose was at once put into action and for twenty-four hours all jets were played on the decks and sides of the ship. "During Saturday and on Sunday morning, dozens of people were seen running on the sections of the wharf which still remained intact, looking for safety, and while many were saved, the bulk must have met their end either by being burned or drowned.

Many wonderful rescues were made. Rope ladders, ropes, rafts, wooden poles and outstretched hands, all accounted for lives saved.

"Very soon the heat and fire made conditions almost unbearable on board, especially on the bridge, which was facing the burning city. Burning debris was blown on board by the terrific wind. The ship's fire equipment, which proved most effective, was kept at full pressure by the crew and passengers, and beyond a little scorching, kept us safe. By now the wharf in front of us was well afire and the danger of our oil tanks being heated to flash point was now very real.

"Repeated earthquakes were constantly occuring and these kept up for seven days. Over one thousand shocks were recorded.

By 4 p.m. Yokohama was one huge fire. Small steamers, launches and lighters, some loaded with oil and others with timber, that had broken loose from their moorings, commenced to blaze up and drift toward us. Several of these masses of fire gave us a lot of trouble and excitement, but our hose was sufficient to keep them in check.

Deafening Explosions

"Explosions were heard from all directions and at 6 p.m. one more deafening than the rest proved to be the naval port of Yokosuka, situated on our left on the south part of Tokio Bay. The magazines, oil tanks, naval hospital and three or four cruisers were all blown up and fifty per cent. of the population killed. For several days the smoke from this district hung in the sky over Yokohama. The sea by this time being more or less normal, our boats were lowered and volunteers called for.

Relief Parties

"From this time until eight days later relief parties were constantly going backwards and forwards to the shore, bringing back hundreds of survivors. The refugees were in a terrible plight.

"Some had legs and arms broken, others were crushed with faces unrecognizable, and many were without clothes.

"Doctors and nurses were called for and more than one of the volunteers in this department fully deserve to be specially mentioned.

"By midnight the wind had changed and was blowing from the sea directly over the city and the scene was positively terrifying. Only one building appeared to be standing intact—the telephone exchange—and this collapsed shortly afterwards. Forty people who had taken refuge in the building were killed as it crashed down. No one who saw Yokohama can ever forget the scene.

Ghastly Experiences

"The survivors that came aboard—men, women and children of all nationalities—had suffered a ghastly time. They had escaped with their lives from the wrecked buildings and had made their way to the shore, hoping to be rescued by vessels, but the typhoon made it impossible for any boat from the ships to make a landing for several hours. In the meantime the fire from the city, blowing towards the sea, compelled thousands of survivors to get into the water in order to avoid being burned. Others, including many women and children, immersed themselves in the canal. A quantity of burning oil, floating down, accounted for many more lives.

"When the earthquake occurred a tug was on the point of towing the Empress of Australia away from the wharf, but they severed the towline immediately and steamed for their own safety to the outer part of the harbor.

"A whole chapter of accidents occurred, resulting in our being practically imprisoned for twenty-four hours. The captain of the steamer Steel Navigator was killed in the earthquake. This ship was moored astern and her anchor chains became entangled in our propellers. A little later a Japanese steamer that had got adrift crashed into our stern. She drifted away and again hit us amidships, eventually getting clear and away. On the opposite side of the wharf the French steamer Andre Lebon was tied up and also unable to move, part of her engine machinery being ashore for repairs.

"When daylight appeared everything was terrible to look at. The fire on land was still raging and all around us were floating lighters, some almost burned out and others still flaming.

Oil Tanks Ablaze

Early on the morning of September 2 another big flame shot up to our left from the oil tanks belonging to the Standard Oil Company. This was situated within the harbor, and the sight was anything but comforting. The wind at this time was blowing along the shore, but later on veered in our direction, and as the risk of floating and burning oil was very great, our commander decided on immediate action.

"I would like to go on record here that from that moment and for several hours afterwards the fate of the Empress of Australia, with thousands on board, was in the hands of Captain Robinson, and, as events later proved, only his sound judgment and the wonderful handling of the ship saved the vessel and our lives.

"The pilot was sent over to the Steel Navigator to advise in the handling of that vessel; a steel cable was used to bind us securely to them, and a staff of men was set to work to disconnect the cable which had fouled our propeller.

Masses of Burning Oil

At this moment an enormous floating mass of burning oil, over 100 feet long, with flames as high as our funnels, had separated from the tanks and was floating towards the ship. By chance I happened to be in the stern of the ship when the orders were given to tow us from the wharf, and the following few minutes were about the most exciting in all my experiences.

Unique Achievement

The remarkable handling of the big ship was worthy of being recorded as a unique achievement. Whilst being towed we had not only to pass between the Andre Lebon and a Japanese steamer, with but a few inches to spare, but we went over burning lighters and a drifting launch got unde rour stern. With one propeller out of action the commander manoeuvred the huge floating city to a place of safety.

In less than thirty minutes of our leaving the section of the wharf that still remained, the floating oil brushed past it, setting it alight, and within a short time nothing remained but the shell of what had been the finest of Yokohama's wharves.

Our position now was immediately outside the harbor entrance, and the wind was still blowing hard on our beam. We drifted out of the main channel and found that we again could not move. Our position was far from secure as the oil was floating towards us. The master of the oil tanker Iris very generously agreed to try to tow us into the open channel, but it was only after many attempts and twelve hours before this was effected and we were safely anchorded well away from the burning oil.

By the third day the fire was still burning fiercely in Yokohama, but one of the principal ports of Japan had been wiped out of existence.

Four Thousand on Board

The Empress of Australia handled nearly 4,000 survivors, including 1,000 Japanese, and the ship has justly been mentioned as the "Haven of Refuge." What might have happened to all those people had the Empress of Australia not been in the harbor, is too terrible to think of. She was the means of saving lives wholesale.

On Tuesday, the fourth day, a squadron of the Japanese naval fleet arrived, and the Japanese Admiral placed the whole district and the harbor under martial law.

On Wednesday, units of the British and American fleets arrived and, without any waste of time, promptly continued the rescue and relief work.

Destroyers were sent to Tokio and Kamakura with food and medical supplies, returning with many refugees.

On Thursday, September 6, we had the services of a diver from H.M.S. Despatch, and our propellers were eventually cleared of the obstruction. With the arrival of other relief ships we were enabled to proceed to Kobe, and after landing the refugees over to the relief committee set out on our voyage across the Pacific."

Like Shaking Dice

George C. Carvell, who served in the war as a major with the Princess Patricia Light Infantry, told the following story:

At 11.58 a.m. the word had been given to cast off, the gangway was in and everyone crowded about the rail of "A" deck, when we all felt a terrible jolting, and for quite seventy-five seconds this enormous bulk jumped up and down anything from a foot to eighteen inches.

Most of us thought that something had gone wrong in the engine-room and we were in danger of being blown up. I was then attracted to the cries on the pier, and looked over to see the extreme end and a length of about 300 yards disappear into the water with hundreds of people and many motor cars. It dawned upon us that it must be an earthquake, and running to the port side we could see the whole of the earth literally rolling along much after the motion a carpet makes when one shakes it on the ground. Two minutes later a second trembling took place which juggled the ship as before. It lasted fifty seconds. No one can describe the thing in words, but the feeling resembled shaking a box of dice. An enormous explosion took place to the left of the Bund, and we could no longer see Yokohama on account of the storm of dust and earth that blew out to us and covered the ship. We felt a terror that was not lessened by being "blind," not knowing really what was going on.

Several of the survivors from the pier climbed on board by a ladder that was thrown to them. These included Captain Kent, our pilot, who had left us and was waiting to take the Empress of Canada back to Shanghai. Capt. Kent was standing under a shed which collopsed, and it was only the subsiding of that portion of the pier into the harbor that allowed him to get free, with bad wounds but alive. His position was made more awful by a motor car running down the slope upon him and nearly pinning him under the water.

We were able to make out that the whole of the left of the Bund was down, and with it the Grand, Oriental and Belmont Hotels, all of which were full of guests, and where some of us had been a short ten minutes before, and where many of us had dined the night previous. Looking closely with glasses we could see building after building topple and crash, and it was not long before we could distinguish the dreaded flames shooting out here and there, and soon the whole was covered with a pall of heavy smoke.

As the fires grew the danger from oil became a menace, and we wondered why the captain did not pull out, until we found that the two Japanese tugs which were ready to tow us out had cut the hawsers and left us. All afternoon we were on our toes wondering what was to happen and watching the shore. When the smoke shifted with the wind we could see the right of the Bund and made out that the British and American consulates were down and all the big buildings, with the exception of the new reinforced concrete telephone building.

Volunteers Called

Volunteers were called for to man boats for rescue work, and they went to a point opposite the Grand Hotel. What a scene!

All those fine buildings were now a mass of wreckage and rubble, a smoking, blazing ruin from end to end of the Bund. The struggling groups of men, women and children began to come down, and their relief at getting to safety on the ship was only to be followed by the terror of possible death by fire.

None were properly clothed, and many were carried on with horrible wounds, broken arms, legs, concussions, burns etc.

All were suffering from injured eyes due to the smoke and dust. The latter were all attended to by volunteers, who bathed their eyes with boric and gave relief. There was soon a request made for clothing, and we all chipped in with what we could spare, and several of the ladies on board took up their duties in accordance with their ability. Those who understood nursing looked after the sick and wounded, while others cared for the little children. I must say they were positively wonderful.

Odor of Burning Flesh

At daybreak the work of rescue was resumed. This time the boats went to that part of Yokohama known as the Bluff, to the left of the Bund. Here everything was a total wreck.

All the foreign houses were crumpled and most of them in flames. The balance were ashes, bricks and charred wood. Huge fissures were seen. Over this scene of devastation crept the horrible odor of burning flesh.

After the first parties of refugees were sent off to the ship, the search became more general. At the tennis court about seventy people greeted us with joy and were sent off to the boats with a guide. At Ichimaru we found the place had escaped the fire, but was badly crashed. We sent some twelve people from there. It was here we noticed the peculiar freaks the earthquake had displayed. A house would be completely demolished while the one next door escaped with but a few injuries. I must say there were very few cases where they did escape, but we all commented upon the sight.

At Komoko, two or three miles away, we found several people homeless but in good condition and hardly touched, with all their baggage with them. These elected to join the ship themselves. The place itself was as flat as a pancake.

Izusan, Yugawara and Atami not only were blotted out completely, but we found no one alive in either place. Some of course had fled towards Kamakura, which in turn was a mass of ruins, but the people saved from the crash were in pretty good shape. Returning to the boats we found that most of the refugees had been taken off, and that two American ships, and the Andre Lebon, were sending boats to help.

Terrible Scenes

It is quite impossible to describe in detail the terrible scenes of grief that we witnessed, or the heartrending tales we listened to. Lost wives, husbands, children, parents, babies, brothers, sisters and sweethearts. All had lost their everything in the world, but that was the least of their troubles; some would have to start all over again, but given their lives, and their families intact, they asked no more. It was some consolation for these harrowing scenes to witness the joy that came with every returned relative, and this went on for days as fresh survivors would be found. Terrible mental suffering was experienced on every side; a friend of mine who was in his bath had his wife and two friends of hers crushed to death in the Belmont Hotel, while he, on the third floor, escaped with a broken leg. Another man was told by his wife she was unhurt and would be all right if he would lift a beam off her back and let her out. He was not physically capable and went for help, which he could not find, and returned to find the building on fire and worked until he was driven away and she was burned before his eyes. One Frenchman saw his wife electrocuted as she stepped out of her car in front of Arthur & Bond's store. There are other instances, some worse.

Monday morning at daylight the Empress of Canada came in and moored alongside us and the President Jefferson had arrived the previous evening homeward bound. At once the work of transferring the refugees to the Canada and the Jefferson began.

When the work of transferring these people to ships leaving for Kobe was finished the search parties were resumed, but now on an organized basis under the direction of the British Consul, General Bolter and the Rev. Mr. Stone, of Yokohama. Unfortunately the American Consul-General was killed, but the American Vice-Consul later came aboard and took over his share of the work.

The great Japanese naval station around the point at Yokosuka was burning for days, all the ships there destroyed and the oil stores gone.

NOBODY'S LOVER

By RUBY M. AYRES

The song ended on a little soft note, and for a moment there was silence; then Jake roused himself and for a moment there was silence; then looked round, but Mrs. March had slipped away, and he and Ursula were alone.

"Thank you," said Jake. "Thank you very much."

"It's a pretty song," Ursula said carelessly. "Poor aunty! She always cries when I sing; I am still wondering if it is a compliment or not."

"I should think it is a great compliment," said Jake. "And so you are going to take up music professionally, after all."

"Yes." Her eyes sparkled as she looked at him. "There are good fairies in the world still, it seems, and one of them has come to me—and, hey, presto!" she waved her hand excitedly. 'Behold the enchanted castle."

Jake smiled. "Is there a fairy prince, too?" he asked.

She laughed scornfully. "Oh, it isn't that kind of enchanted castle, and even if there is a fairy prince living there he won't interest me at all."

She looked at Jake critically. "Captain Rattray, may I ask you a question?"

"A hundred if you like."

"Then why did you really come here this evening? I am sure my uncle is not at all the sort of man you like."

"How do you know that?"

Ursula shrugged her shoulders. "I can't explain. Perhaps by the way you looked at him at dinner."

Jake flushed. "I could have knocked him down with pleasure for the way he spoke to you."

Her face reflected the warmth in his.

"Oh, that!" she said indifferently. "I suppose I was foolish to take any notice, but it nearly drives me mad when he speaks of my father as he did to-night. I loved my father—I would have died for him—and to hear Uncle Henry speak of him so scornfully——". She broke off.

There was a little silence, then she went on. "However, I shall not be here much longer, so it does not matter. I don't know what I should have done if I had to live here for ever and ever." She looked at Jake apologetically. "Shall we talk about something else? I don't know what you must think of us all; quarelling in front of a stranger."

"Am I such a stranger?" Jake asked ruefully.

"We have only met three times," she reminded him.

Jake smiled reminiscently. "I know a man who met a girl, fell in love with her, proposed and got engaged to her in less than a week," he said.

Ursula's lip curled. "And regretted it ever after, I suppose."

"No, they were only married ten days ago, but I should imagine theirs will turn out to be one of the few marriages that are made in heaven—if there is such a place," he added cynically. "I am speaking of Spicer," he went on. "I believe you know him."

"My father knew him."

A shadow had fallen over the girl's face. She had spoken truly when she said that she had adored her father. The mere mention of his name made her heart ache.

Presently she roused herself with an effort.

"You did not answer my question, Captain Rattray."

"I have told you before. I came here to see you."

The color rose to her face. "Really to see me?"

"Yes—to ask you why you are so determined to dislike me?"

"I don't dislike you."

"Why did you refuse to allow Baily to introduce me that night at Marnio's?"

Her eyes fell. "You heard what I said then?" she asked.

"Yes."

Ursula raised her chin.

"Captain Rattray," she said, "I am going to be very frank with you. I dare say you will hate me for it, and be terribly offended—"

"I am not easy to offend. Please go on."

"You must know, without my telling you—that there are some people we—we dislike without knowing why." She stopped.

"You mean that I am one of th...?" Jake asked.

She raised her eyes suddenly.

"I don't like many people," she said, defensively. "I have hardly any friends. Aunt Milly says that some day I shall be sorry that I have so few, but I don't think so. My father had heaps of friends. Wherever he went he made what he called friends—and yet, when bad times came to him, there was not one of them all who offered to help him. I have not forgotten that——" There was a little catch in her voice. "I never shall forget it; and that's why I don't want any friends."

"That is not a very good reason for disliking me. If you have no other . . ."

"But I have." And now she was looking at him again. "Doris St. Clair is my friend—the night you and I had dinner with her, she told me—she told me . . ." She stopped in embarrassment.

"Well, I thought that you cared for her," she went on. "And so, I—I think it is horrible, the way you have treated her since. I came home with her the night after that concert—the concert you went to. She was dreadfully unhappy. She cried all the way home because you had promised to wait for her, and had not—and yesterday I saw her again, and she told me——" She broke off, only to continue more firmly. "She told me that you had written to her, saying that you no longer cared for her, and—and she said that her heart was broken."

"Go on," said Jake grimly.

Ursula paled.

"That is all," she said. "But I think it's—rather mean—of you to come here and—and—"

"Try to flirt with you," Jake added deliberately. He rose to his feet. "You said just now that you were going to be frank with me," he said. "Very well, now it is my turn to be frank with you. Doris has seen fit to tell her side of the story—now you shall have mine. A month ago she and I were engaged. A fortnight ago an uncle of mine died, and the money I expected to inherit went to my cousin—the man for whom your father mistook me when we were introduced this afternoon. I told Doris this, and she turned me down—she said she could not be poor. I took my dismissal, and when she found I was not going to cut my throat or jump into the river, she tried to whistle me back."

His voice was hoarse with anger. At that moment he hated Doris and he hated this girl for championing her.

CHILD ADOPTION PLAN TO BE URGED

Miss Andrew Seeks to Provide Homes to Check Baby Farming System

Miss Clara Andrew, of London, England, the founder of the National Children Adoption Association, will come to Victoria on Monday, October 1.

Miss Andrew has devoted her energies since the armistice to the task of caring for unwanted children, and especially to lessening the evils of the baby-faming system. She began by founding a home where such children could be received, and where people who were desirous of adopting a child could go and make a choice. The children are taken into this home at the earliest possible age, generally under the age of one year. The history of the children and their parents is thoroughly investigated, and every precaution taken that only babies whose parents have a clean bill of health are received.

The National Children Adoption Association does not take in these children with the idea of bringing them up, but only takes care of them until a suitable application for adoption is made.

H. R. H. Princess Alice is president of the association, and a large number of distinguished men and women are on the list of vice-presidents, among them the Premier of Canada. Lady Perley is a member of the executive committee, and has undertaken to co-operate with the association in Canada. H. M. the Queen takes a keen and practical interest in this work, and has paid a visit of inspection to the various branches.

In view of the need of the overseas Dominions for a larger British-born population Miss Andrew is anxious to strengthen the relations of the association with Canada, and to increase the number of homes in which children under the association's care will be received for adoption.

With this end in view she is traveling across Canada giving a public address on the association's objects at all the principal cities and towns en route. She intends to sail home from Montreal early in November.

CHAPTER TO HOLD SALE

Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, I.O.D.E., will hold a rummage sale on Saturday next at 10 a.m. in Seabrook Young's old store, 1421 Douglas Street. The Nurses' Alumnae of the Royal Provincial Jubilee Hospital held a dance on Saturday evening in the Nurses' Home, which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion with blue hydrangeas by Miss Gregory Allen. About forty couples joined in dancing to the music provided by Neary's orchestra. A buffet supper was served during the evening. Mrs. Bullock-Webster and Mrs. York were conveners of the dance, which was one of the most enjoyable the Alumnae has ever given.

The Misses Gladys and Marjorie Watson, who have been spending the Summer in camp at the Gorge, terminated their outing with a jolly dance on Friday night at the club rooms of the Swimming Club. Zala's three-piece orchestra was in attendance. Among those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Gladding, Mr. and Mrs. Glazen, the Misses Thelma Burgess, Frances Whillans, Helen Elliott, Constance McGill, Maud Williams, Jean Brocklebank, Eileen Lawrence, Edith Robertson, Messrs. Jock Watson, Clive Church, Bud Newlands, Frank Cameron, Chris Ferriman, Ernest Stocks, Fred Brady, George Elliott, Tom Watson, Crawford Fennell, Brock Whitney, Dr. Sweeney and Arthur Webster.

A surprise shower arranged in honor of Miss Mamie McMillan was given on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Dinsmore, Princess Avenue. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with asters, sweet peas and greenery. The centre piece was a large wedding cake, beneath which were cunningly concealed many dainty gifts for the bride-to-be. The list of invited guests included the Misses Edna and Bessie Middleton, Connie Strickland, Margaret and Jennie Freeman, Maybelle Edgar, Lillian and Laura Shaw, Gladys Ridout, Susie, Kathleen and Evelyn Johnson, Helen Moore, Mamie and Florence McMillan, L. Merrill and Mesdames C. Foote, W. Russell, G. Andrews, J. Dinsmore, G. Hardy (Vancouver), S. Young (Lethbridge) and R. McIntosh. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, and the function was thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

Charming in its simplicity was the wedding that took place on Saturday evening when Miss Mary Hannan, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hannan, of Pembroke Street, became the bride of Mr. Wilfred Paulin, of Vancouver. The bride has been a member of the office staff of The Victoria Daily Times. Mr. Paulin passed his boyhood in Victoria, his father, the late Mr. George Paulin, being well known in musical circles. The marriage ceremony was performed at the home of the bride, by Rev. Dr. Leslie Clay, and gained added interest from the fact that Dr. Clay also had officiated at the marriage of her parents. The bride entered the room on the arm of her father, looking very sweet in a frock of navy blue satin gaufre, with a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and fern. Little Kathleen Hannan attended her sister as bridesmaid in a dainty frock of apple-green organdie. Miss Bessie Forbes at the piano, gave a fine rendering of the Wedding March from "Lohengrin." Mr. George Paulin, of Vancouver, attended his brother as best man. Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served, the tables being effectively arranged with Michaelmas daisies and white chrysanthemums. Later Mr. and Mrs. Paulin left for Vancouver on the first stage of their wedding trip.

An executive meeting of the women's auxiliary to the Canadian Legion will be held this evening at eight o'clock. A general meeting will be held to-morrow at the same hour.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE DANCE SUCCESS

Capacity Crowd at Masonic Dance Held on Saturday

On Saturday evening the Malahat Lodge, A. F. & A. M., held a very enjoyable dance in the Athletic Association Hall at Shawnigan Lake. The hall was filled to capacity.

The Gizeh Temple Shrine Band of thirty pieces from Victoria played a very enjoyable concert starting at 8 p.m., and also furnished music for the dance which followed. Bandmaster Miller and his band played the most popular dance numbers, and were most generous with their encores, which were evidently much appreciated by the dancers.

The dance programme included sixteen of the most popular numbers, while the concert programme contained several solos and selections, all of which were played with harmony and finish. This indicated that although an organization of less than two years old, some musicians of long experience have been discovered and put back into harness.

This is the same band which plans to supply the music for the big Shriners' novelty dance in aid of the Japanese Relief Fund.

A number from Duncan attended the dance, and also some residents of Shawnigan Lake have already made reservations for the next big dance, although the date has not been definitely fixed.

COURAGE

HELEN PEIGHTAL

Huntingdon, Pa., — Saving lives seems to have become a habit with this pretty eighteen-year-old girl. She is Helen Peightal.

A year ago she leaped into the Juaniata River and rescued a drowning man many pounds heavier than she. It was her third rescue within a few months.

How does she do it? How do so many other heroes who have gained fame by rescuing persons from drowning?

"Why," she exclaimed at the time, "you don't think of yourself. You only know someone needs you."

Rev. E. Macmillan, B.D., new moderator of the Presbyterian Church of South Africa, was in his youth a "sky pilot" in Western Canada.

The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishops of Bristol and Croydon were visitors to the Wesleyan Methodist Conference this year.

Double Corner Cupboards

So many requests have come in for information concerning the ready-to-build-in furniture, and especially for the china cupboards, that this convenient form of dining-room closet is shown to-day. In the room illustrated, one cupboard was inserted in the space formerly occupied by an ordinary closet, and the other was placed in a space cut in the wall.

The value of this so-called "permanent fixture" is that it really becomes a permanent, fixed part of the house walls, and not separate pieces standing out into the room. It comes fully made, in designs originated by a famous firm of architects, and is placed by the local carpenter into a space cut in the walls, according to dimensions furnished by the makers of the furniture!

It is a great comfort to many home-makers to be able to get beautiful ready-made doors, windows, porches, window-seats, book-cases, partitions, dining alcoves with pretty table and benches, kitchen cupboards, built-in tables, and a hundred other devices, all ready to insert into the growing house. The colonial designs are, to my mind, the most attractive. Two such quaint china closets as those shown are enough to make any dining-room charming, and when a panelled wainscoting is added, pulling the cupboards and the windows into one harmonious whole, the room has a look of permanence and beauty that is rarely found in any but the most expensive homes.

The manufacturers of this ready-to-use furniture make sideboards to match every cupboard design, so that the entire room is truly built in.

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Sandman Story For To-night

MARY'S NECKLACE

Mary had no brothers and sisters and her mother was dead. But she had a very nice old white-haired father for whom she kept house. Their house was the back half of a little shop that her father took care of all day long. The shop had three gilt balls outside and a big window full of watchfobs and odd bits of jewelry. When poor people were hungry or cold and had no money, but had a gold ring or a watch, they would bring it to Mary's father and borrow money on it. He would give them a ticket with the money and when they had earned enough to pay him what they had borrowed they would come back to the little shop, which Mary kept clean, and get their ring or their watch back again. But sometimes the people never came back. Mary and her father never knew what had happened to them. Some of them perhaps went away to another city; some of them may have forgotten all about their ring or their brooch.

When a certain number of months had gone by and no one came back to claim a bit of jewelry, it belonged to Mary's father because of the money he had paid on it. In the cellar of their house was a big wooden barrel where all the bits of gold were stored for which no one had ever come back. Mary's father had been a pawnbroker for so long that the barrel was now almost full. Mary used to go downstairs once in a while with a candle and look at the glittering bits, but most of the time she was too busy with her school books and her housework. Her father was very anxious for her to do good work at her lessons, for he was going to send her through high school as well as grammar school, and perhaps to college if they could save enough money. But it was a very small shop and they had to eat and have warm clothes, and sometimes her father would shake his head and sigh over his account books. The barrel of gold in the basement was to be sold for the money to send her to high school, however, and after that they must do what they could about the money for college.

One day Mary heard her father talking with a stranger about the barrel of old gold and when they had agreed upon the price the stranger asked the white-haired pawnbroker if he had anything else he wished to sell.

Mary's father shook his head. "Nothing that has been here long enough but a necklace, and that is not worth selling. The stones are paste, but it is pretty and I have kept it for Mary when she graduates from high school."

"Let me look at it," said the stranger.

Mary's father brought out a solid white box. The stranger opened it and looked at the stones of the necklace curiously.

"How long have you had this?" he inquired.

"O, for ten years or more," replied the pawnbroker. Then seeing the look on the stranger's face, he inquired, "The stones are paste, aren't they?"

"They are diamonds!" replied the stranger. "Old-fashioned setting and cutting, but diamonds, nevertheless. If you will come with me to a jeweler I will pay you a fair price for it, which will more than send your daughter through college and give you a good sum to save."

When the necklace was cleaned—for the settings were filled with dust—the old pawnbroker received more money for it than he had ever dreamed of possessing, and there was no more worry about Mary's education.

But often Mary wondered whether the ones who sold the necklace knew it was real diamonds or if they, like her father, had thought the stones were paste.

The meeting of the Daughters of Pity due to-day has been changed on account of illness. The meeting now will be held at the home of Miss Sylvester.

When Film makes teeth cloudy the lips are kept closed

End Film and the prettier teeth lead to open smiles

This Offer

May bring you a delightful surprise

Do you realize how many prettier teeth you see nowadays?

Millions of people now brush teeth in a new way. They combat the cloudy film. And those whiter, cleaner, safer teeth show what that method means.

You and yours will use it when you once learn what it does. And this free test will show you.

Those dingy coats

Your teeth are coated with a film—that viscous film you feel. Much of it resists the tooth brush, clings and stays.

Soon that film discolors, then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Some of these troubles come to nearly all. You should fight the film.

Two easy ways

Now dental science has discovered two easy ways to fight film. One acts to disintegrate the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Leading dentists the world over now advise it. Careful people of some 50 nations use it every day.

Natural—gentle

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to better fight mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, to better digest starch deposits. So every use gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

Thus Pepsodent brings its amazing results in natural and gentle ways, without harsh grit.

Pepsodent results are quick and apparent. They will amaze and delight you.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the cloudy coats disappear.

This means much to you and yours. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

SIBERIAN PRINCE WILL LOAD DIRECT FOR BELFAST SOON

Repairs Expected to be Completed About First of November

Four Hundred Men Are Being Employed by Yarrows, Ltd.

With the bottom practically out on the port side and all the clearing completed the Siberian Prince, at present undergoing repairs at the drydocks by Yarrows, Ltd., will be completed about the first part of November, it was announced to-day. Construction and replacing work has commenced and some 300 to 400 men are being kept employed in two separate shifts commencing at 7 o'clock in the morning until 11.30 o'clock at night.

Following the completion of repairs, which will cost some $200,000, the Furness-Withy ship will move to Seattle, where she will load direct for Belfast, Ireland. All her cargo that was in her holds when she went aground at Bentinck Island has been transferred to other of the company's ships and taken to their destination.

The shipment for Belfast is the first to be loaded on Puget Sound direct for Belfast for some time and will include lumber, canned goods, wheat and other northwest products. She will not only take cargo to Belfast but will also load for Glasgow, Liverpool, London and Hull. She will be the first Furness-Withy ship to load Belfast cargo in the northwest and, besides loading at Seattle, will take on considerable cargo consignments at Vancouver, from where she was proceeding to the Old Country when the mishap occurred in a dense fog.

TEDDY BEAR BATTLED FIERCE BEHRING STORM

Was Driven 500 Miles Out of Course; Heavy Seas Swept Her Decks

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 24.—Story of an eleven-day battle against towering seas lashed by a Bering Sea gale was told by members of the United States Geological Survey party from Point Barrow who arrived at Teller on the 13-ton schooner Teddy Bear. The Teddy Bear commanded by Captain Joe Bernard was driven from Point Hope, north of Kotzebue Sound, to St. Lawrence Island, opposite Nome, thence to Sledge Island and back through Bering Strait to Shismaref Inlet, a distance of 500 miles before the storm subsided enough for the vessel to proceed on her regular course. Captain Bernard was on deck most of the time during the 11-days' fight and only his seamanship and knowledge of the Northern waters enabled the little schooner to win through, according to the passengers.

The schooner Blue Sea, owned by Olaf Swenson & Co., of Seattle, has arrived at Nome Roadstead from Anadyr, Siberia, John Lamps, representing the Swenson Company in Siberia said trading conditions there were improving and that the Blue Sea would probably make another trading voyage before the closing of navigation.

The schooner Noatak, for which fears were felt during the storm that raged over this section recently, is safe at Keewalik after being driven at a terrific rate through Bering Strait under hazardous conditions.

SHIP RAN AGROUND NEAR PORT NEUF

Quebec, Sept. 24—The Richelieu, of the Canada Steamship Lines, ran aground at Grondines, near Port Neuf, at midnight last night. The Saguenay is standing by to take off passengers at the first favorable opportunity.

HAWAII MARU WILL MAKE QUARANTINE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Unsettled Conditions Plays Havoc With Eastbound Freight

Latest advices from the Osaka Shosen Kaisha steamship Hawaii Maru, state that she will make quarantine to-morrow afternoon.

She is the first ship to load in Japan since the earthquake. There is very little cargo stowed away in her holds. Things are too disorganized at present for shippers to bother much about trade with this coast.

It is expected that general conditions will adjust themselves when the steamship lines can once again run their vessels on an organized schedule.

The Hawaii Maru has only nineteen tons of cargo for Victoria. In addition to this there are fifteen bags of mail and four for the aircraft.

There are few passengers aboard the steamer. For Victoria there are four steerage passengers. Seattle's passenger list amounts to nine cabin passengers and fourteen steerage.

The cargo consignments to the Sound ports is not heavy. For Tacoma there is 617 tons, Seattle twenty-four tons, raw silk 140 bales, bulk oil 700 tons, and intercoastal cargo 261 tons.

DECKS SWARMED WITH AN HETEROGENEOUS MASS OF SUFFERING QUAKE VICTIMS

Compared With Ypres

Looking over the result of Nature's five minutes' work, I could not help but think what pygmies we really are.

Here was a modern city entirely and more completely wiped out in that time than Ypres was in three years of bombarding. In fact, if there are any places in the war-devastated areas of France and Belgium that are more completely flat than Yokohama, I certainly never have seen or heard of them.

On Monday afternoon a Japanese destroyer came in, and later a battle cruiser, then five other destroyers, but up to Wednesday nothing was done by them to effect any kind of relief for their own or the foreign population. The people on shore were far as we could hear, was to work starving and without water.

Early Wednesday morning the American destroyer Stuart came in, followed at 2.30 p.m. by H.M.S. Despatch, which promptly sailed all over the harbor, sized things up, dropped her anchor, thundered out a twenty-one gun salute to the Japanese battleship. We were then informed that the British Consul-General had commandeered us as the official British relief ship, and we were to remain here until the Hawkins or other warship arrived.

Wednesday afternoon the United States Shipping Board boat West Orawa came from Kobe empty, and volunteered to take up to 500 refugees to Kobe. By the evening of this day we had again on board about 4,000 refugees, and they were still coming off in boat loads, whilst a Dutch tank vessel, with our chief officer in charge, left for Kamakura to pick up the survivors there.

Thursday the West Orowa left with her five hundred. From Monday night we could see Tokio burning but could get no particulars.

A United States gunboat went up with rations. The police estimate the Tokio casualties at over 100,000. The creek running under the garden bridge was full of dead bodies, and it was impossible to go ashore, without a respirator on account of the stench from burning and decomposed bodies.

Work of Ship's Surgeon

Dr. W. Rose, the ship's surgeon, worked heroically and with willing assistants gave first aid to the injured refugees as they were brought aboard the ship from the inferno ashore.

All the passengers spoke in the highest terms of praise of the unselfish work of Dr. Rose.

Boatswain Smith was picked out by the passengers for special mention. He did most admirable work in rescuing refugees.

Horse Roasted In Building

Chief Steward G. McFarlane, who went ashore to investigate after feeding thousands of refugees, told of witnessing the remains of a horse which had been roasted alive on the second floor of the partly demolished Russo-Asiatic Bank. The horse had evidently reached the second floor of the building over the piled up wreckage and was there caught by the advancing flames.

The early task facing Chief Steward McFarlane was a gigantic one. "We served ten thousand individual meals within thirty-six hours and I want to say that the men in my department worked admirably," said Mr. McFarlane.

Two phlegmatic Germans, Dr. Otto Burchard, of Shanghai, a professor of the history of fine arts, and Johann Barth, of Tokio, a merchant, paid their tribute to the manner in which the Canadian Empress liner upheld the highest traditions of the British merchant marine. They did it in characteristic German fashion.

"The behavior of the ship's officers and crew was absolutely correct," they said. "Human beings could not have done more."

Children's Experience

From other passengers were obtained further details of the appalling conditions which prevailed and of the heroic self-sacrifice of officers, crew and passengers of the Empress of Australia. Mrs. David Mackenzie and her four little children, ranging in age from three to eleven years, were at their seaside home at Dzushi when the shock came, she said. The children's Scottish nurse was killed when the house collapsed, but Mrs. Mackenzie and the little ones were at the beach.

"Knowing from the terrific disturbance of the earth that a tidal wave would follow, we rushed inland for a couple of miles. For two nights we slept in the open and finally with about twenty others found shelter in a Japanese house for three days until we had a United States destroyer took us to the Empress of Australia. My husband was at Yokohama when the shock came, but fortunately escaped uninjured. It was more than twenty-four hours before we found each other and we were each sure the other was dead. In spite of the terror of the adults, it was marvelous that the children seemed quite undisturbed."

The youngsters were clad in their beach clothes supplemented by sweaters knitted aboard the ship. Mrs. Mackenzie was in a neatly fashioned blue dress, which, she said, had been made by women passengers of the Empress from a bolt of navy uniform serge sent aboard from a United States cruiser. So well made was it that nobody could have guessed the circumstances of its origin.

Organized Relief

Miss G. C. Gilbert and Miss H. Cameron, two wealthy Virginia ladies, were credited with organizing the relief work among the women passengers. When refugees began coming aboard they opened their wardrobes and gave away everything they had except what they happened to be wearing at the moment. Two nurses who were on the passenger list, Misses Stewart and Thayer, gave their services freely from the outset and attended the stretcher cases all the way across the Pacific.

Four British Columbia ladies were specially lauded by passengers for their devotion to duty. They were the four stewardesses, Miss Marion Kerr, Miss Tingley, Mrs. Turnbull and Mrs. Murcheson. They were pressed into service as nursing assistants and worked almost without intermission assisting the doctors and trained nurses for the first three or four days.

Stretcher Cases

Two stretcher cases were taken ashore here. Mrs. G. Blundell, of Yokohama, was suffering from a dislocated hip which had received no attention for the eight days which preceded her being taken aboard the Empress, when Dr. Rose, the ship's surgeon, took it in hand. The other was the ship's wireless operator, Percy Leonard, a Victoria boy, who, however, was not a victim of the quake, but was taken ill during the voyage.

Mrs. E. Wethers and Mrs. A. W. Craig, who were together in the second story of a Yokohama house when it was shaken to the ground, were hospital cases. Mrs. Wethers lost her husband in the disaster but Mr. Craig was aboard the ship.

Impressive Ruin

One of the tragic oddities of the disaster concerned the Yokohama Specie Bank, one of the most massive structures in Yokohama. It was shaken to pieces, but even its ruins were an impressive pile. In the great courtyard a cleared space was left and in it were found thirty bodies of people smothered by the smoke and fumes but untouched by the flames which swept all around.

The women of Victoria united to pay a special tribute to Capt. Robinson.

A deputation went aboard to wait on Captain Robinson and present him with a testimonial address to his heroic conduct.

The Salvation Army played the ship alongside but left off suddenly when the musicians caught sight of Herb Delamonte, ship's barber, who when ashore is their bandmaster. The tune ended abruptly and the bandsmen cheered their leader to the echo as he stuck his head through a porthole far above them.

The Empress brought only three people as refugees, all others having booked their passages formally from Yokohama or Kobe, where forty or fifty intended passengers were compelled by tragic circumstances to cancel their sailings and forty-three victims of the quake took their places. There were 114 saloon passengers, 20 second class, 29 third class and 306 steerage.

Great crowds were gathered at the docks and along the adjacent shore and rousing cheers welcomed the Empress as she warped alongside.

Duncan Girl in Quake

After the most terrible experience of her young life, Miss E. N. Garrard disembarked here from the Empress of Australia and proceeded to her home in Duncan.

O.S.K. WILL HAVE TO ADJUST SAILINGS

Announcements Are Made Regarding the Arabia Maru and Arizona Maru

Owing to the disorganized condition of shipping in the Orient due to the recent Japanese disaster, Japanese shipping schedules have been practically abandoned. The Osaka Shosen Kaisha amongst others is feeling the effect of the disaster and as a result have had to reorganize their schedule.

For this purpose the arrivals of boats from the Orient of the O.S.K. line will not be known except by advice. Adjustment of the schedule can only be rearranged by conducting a service independent of the present schedule and carry on as best possible until a regular schedule can be arranged.

For this reason the O.S.K. line announced that the Arabia Maru will make her twenty-second eastbound trip on October 14, leaving Kobe instead of Yokohama. Bound for Seattle she will dock here to discharge cargo and passengers on October 28 and will make her westbound trip on November 13. There will be no change in her calling ports, the telegram intimates.

The Arizona Maru, also of the O.S.K. line, will leave for Victoria from Kobe on October 6 and arrive in Victoria on October 20. Westbound she will leave Seattle after loading on the Sound on November 3, calling at Yokohama, Kobe, Moji, Shanghai, and Nagasaki. The vessel will drop Dairen and Hongkong from her itinerary. This advice was received at Rithets Consolidated, Ltd., who are the local agents, this morning.

JEFFERSON TOOK OUT A RECORD LIST OF PASSENGERS

Docked Here Outbound For Orient Yesterday; Many Passengers Embark

To pick up a record passenger list at Victoria the Admiral Oriental liner President Jefferson docked here late yesterday afternoon outbound for the Orient. She took on forty-three first-class passengers, the largest number to embark here in recent years. In addition to the first-class passengers, there were twenty-five Japanese steerage and seventy-five Chinese steerage embarked in Victoria. Most of the Japanese are returning to search for relatives from whom they have not received word since the earthquake. Many of the passengers aboard the Jefferson had previously booked on the Empress liners, but owing to the disorganization in the schedule they transferred to the American craft. A thousand bags of mail were taken aboard at Victoria. This is also one of the largest mails to leave this port for some time, but is accountable by the fact that some of it would have left on the Empress liners had they been on schedule.

Among those embarking here were: Major J. C. F. Hyndman, of Victoria, who will make a business trip through the Orient; W. Moore, Miss E. L. Wadman and Miss H. Thompson Argent, all of Shanghai; Miss Wadman and Miss Thompson have been spending the Summer on Vancouver Island; Hon. George Glynn, London; Mrs. G. F. A. Mulock, Vancouver; Robert Blau, F. C. Perry, Coventry, England; S. M. Joseph, Shanghai; Carl Kusenberg, Bruehl, Baden; Mr. and Mrs. William K. Bradgate, Liverpool; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. D. Nichols, New York; Mrs. Helene Caswell and Miss Vera Caswell, Manila; Mrs. I. L. Howell, Miss M. R. Howell, I. H. Howell and Maurice Dean, New York; A. H. Leslie, Shanghai; Lieutenant-Colonel F. Hayley Bell, Dorking, England; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Donovan, Boston; T. Toledano, J. T. Asquith, Raymond Asquith, Mrs. Rose Asquith, Eric Asquith, Shanghai; Leo A. Blok, Zandvoort; Mr. and Mrs. G. Jeruoka, Yokohama; Mr. and Mrs. Alec Samson, Arthur E. Barnes, Shanghai; Mrs. Ilka Anna Bonus, Hamburg; Mrs. Sarah Schoenhaut, New York; Albert Kopp, Paris; P. H. Holdsworth, Bradford, England; T. R. Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stanton and Robert Stanton, Shanghai.

Vancouver, Sept. 24.—Remands for one week during which further investigation will be made by the police, were to-day granted in the cases of Clifford Sargent and William Doak, arrested in Victoria on suspicion of being concerned in a number of recent safe-cracking in this city.

Knockout Series Is Arranged for McKechnie Games

B.C. Rugby Union Holds Annual Meeting and Arranges Schedule For Big Cup

Vancouver, Sept. 24.—R. P. Woodward, of Vancouver, was re-elected president of the British Columbia Rugby Union at the annual meeting held in Vancouver over the week-end. Gordon Cameron, of Victoria, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The treasurer's report for the past year showed that the association is in a sound financial state.

Delegate R. D. Travis, of Victoria, predicted a successful year for Rugby in the capital. He stated that four strong teams have signified their intention to play in the senior league. The teams are the Navy, United Services, James Bay A.A. and Oak Bay Wanderers.

The constitution was revised in several respects to cope with any possible contingencies which may arise. During the debate over the regulations and rules governing competition in the McKechnie Cup series the union went on record as favoring the enforcement of the five-yard rule, the general feeling of the delegates being that the five-yard rule produced a more open and faster game.

Cumberland Coming In

There is still some uncertainty as to whether Nanaimo will field a team again this year. Cowichan has been organized for some time and has had several workouts. The Cumberland Tigers are active again, and will be seen in action against Victoria, Nanaimo and Cowichan this Winter.

It was decided that in case there are five teams entered for the McKechnie Cup series this year the provincial championship will be determined by a knockout series, in which the contestants will be the winner of a series between Victoria and the Upper Island winners, and the winner of a series between Vancouver and 'Varsity. The final series will consist of home and home games. In making these arrangements the association believes that traveling expenses will be reduced to a minimum.

Arrange Schedule

However, should the fight for the provincial championship be confined to 'Varsity, Vancouver and Victoria, these three teams will meet in home and home games for the title, and with a view to being prepared for this eventuality the association arranged the following tentative schedule:

November 10, 1923—'Varsity vs. Victoria, at Vancouver.

November 24, 1923 — 'Varsity vs. Vancouver, at Vancouver.

Janaury 5, 1924—Victoria vs. 'Varsity, at Victoria.

January 19, 1924—Vancouver vs. Victoria, at Vancouver.

January 26, 1924—'Varsity vs. Vancouver, at Vancouver.

February 2, 1924—Vancouver vs. Victoria, at Victoria.

Professor W. H. Powell and Major Williams, of Cumberland, were elected honorary vice-presidents.

J.S. Shaw First Winner of Fine Uplands Trophy

Net Score of 261 Gives Him Victory in Match; Brynjolfson's Fine Work

With a net score of 261 J. S. Shaw won the honor of being the first golfer to have his name engraved on the Uplands trophy, which was donated for a seventy-two-hole match, medal play, to the Uplands Golf Club. Mr. Shaw had a lead of four strokes on his nearest competitor, P. Edmunds.

The tournament has been in progress for three weeks. A thirty-six hole qualifying round was played, and the thirty-two players with the lowest scores entered the seventy-two-hole match, one-half of which was played last week and the second half completed yesterday.

Full handicaps were allowed, and Mr. Shaw was a twenty-four handicap man, which gave him ninety-six strokes on the match. P. Edmunds, who was second, was a fourteen handicap, while Wallie Brynjolfson, with a ten handicap, was third, with 266.

Turned in Nice Cards

Brynjolfson turned in the best gross score for both one round and the match. Yesterday morning he shot a seventy-three, which was one better than that made by Fairbairn last week. Brynjolfson's cards for the seventy-two holes totalled 306.

The scores were as follows:

J. S. Shaw	261
R. Edmonds	265
W. C. Brynjolfson	266
B. R. Ciceri	270
R. L. Challonger	272

Twenty Consecutive Wins is Record of Baltimore Pitcher

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 24.—Rube Parnham established a new world's pitching record here today when he hurled Baltimore to a double victory over Jersey City in the final games of the International League season, notching his twentieth win. The Baltimore heaver, in winning the second game, surpassed the consecutive win record of Marquard and O'Keefe, at nineteen victories, while he also clipped the season mark of thirty-two wins held jointly by Ogden and Vickers, both Orioles.

Glenna's Victory Over Mrs. Gavin Was Very Lucky

English Lady Outlucked in Finals For Canadian Ladies' Golf Championship

Montreal, Sept. 24 (Canadian Press)—Nearly always behind, Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, R.I., United States champion, made a great effort toward the end of the thirty-six hole final for the Canadian women's open golf championship on Saturday, got in the lead and won from her opponent, Mrs. Gavin, of Huntercombe, England, who held the championship last year, by the narrow margin of 2 and 1.

Summarized, it can be said that it was a lucky win for Miss Collett, as Mrs. Gavin had practically all of the breaks in the luck, and was badly treated by fate at the crucial thirty-fifth hole.

Miss Collett was one up, due to an error of judgment by Mrs. Gavin on the previous hole for which she had been most harshly punished—she had tried to shave off the corner of the dog's leg—had got into a trap extending into the fairway and had come out only to go into one almost across the entrance to the green.

An Unfortunate Hole

At the next, Mrs. Gavin's drive had been good. Her spoon second shot came within an inch of holding the green, but toppled down the bank of the trap. She came out too strongly, the ball shot over the green, and down into a hole in the rough on the other side, where it was unplayable. Miss Collett's second had gone into this same rough spot, but it was playable. Mrs. Gavin had to concede the hole and the match.

Miss Collett outdrove Mrs. Gavin, generally by fifty yards, and the Englishwoman played the odd on all the long holes except where the United States champion hooked into the rough, which she did several times. Mrs. Gavin's approach shots were the feature of her game, and these took her out of tight places many times.

Almost a Juggler

Miss Collett plunged into trouble quite recklessly, but was generally able to recover with an ability which almost amounted to juggling. Time after time the United States girl was in the trap, only to come out and lose little length or get onto the green with her wonderful chip shot. She was never penalized for her errors on account of her power to correct them brilliantly. Mrs. Gavin, in the afternoon round, which she started two up, made four mistakes only, and they cost her a hole each time.

WANTS TO SEE EVERY AMATEUR REGISTERED

St. John, N. B., Sept. 24.—President Covey, of the Maritime branch, will move at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, to be held in Vancouver shortly, that a six-months' resident clause be inserted in the rules and also that universal registration be strictly enforced.

The adoption of the latter amendment to the constiution would mean that every athlete competing in amateur sport must be duly registered with the A.A.U. of C.

JACK JOHNSON WILL BATTLE WITH SIKI

Quebec, Sept 24—Jack Johnson, ex-heavyweight champion, and Battling Siki, the Senegalese fighter, will meet here in a six-round exhibition bout next Monday. The two boxers meet in Montreal two days later.

FAST TIME MADE

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 24 — Fast times in sprinting and good pole vaulting featured the annual interscholastic athletic association sports meet here Saturday. Pickard, of Hamilton, vaulted twelve feet five inches, one inch short of the Canadian record. The result of the meet was:

Toronto 216 points; Hamilton 70 points and St. Catharines 21 points.

OPEN WITH A WIN

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—The champion Victorias opened the Rugby season here Saturday with a clean-cut victory over the Manitoba University squad, 23 to 8, in the Manitoba Rugby Union. The students lacked the necessary finish against the more experienced opponents, but made the game much livelier than the score would indicate.

RIFLE SHOOTING

The following scores were made in the spoon shoot of the Canadian Scottish Battalion held Saturday:

	200	500	600	Tl.
C.-Q.-M.-S. H. Burton	31	32	31	94
Capt. S. Wenson	30	31	32	93

Capt. P. R. M. Wallis	31	26	24	81
C.-Q.-M.-S. Mitchel	30	26	26	72
Pte. Muir	23	19	16	68

C.-Q.-M.-S. H. Burton is the spoon winner.

Ladies to Play For City Golf Titles Next Week

Entries For Championship Will Close on Friday, September 28

The Victoria ladies' city golf championship will be held at the Oak Bay links from October 1 to October 5 inclusive. The qualifying round of eighteen holes will be played on Monday, October 1, the first sixteen to qualify.

The first round of the championship flight will be played on October 2, the second round on October 3, the third round on October 4, and the final on October 5.

The defeated eight of the championship flight will form the first flight, and there will be other flights according to the number of entries. The first round of the first and other flights will be played on October 3, the second round on October 4, and the final rounds on Friday, October 5.

Prizes will be given to the first in the qualifying round, to the winner and runner-up of the championship, and to the winners of the other flights. In addition to these prizes the winner of the championship will be awarded the cup presented by the Begg Motor Company Limited, which is emblematic of the ladies' city championship.

Residents of the city who are members of the local clubs will be eligible to take part in the championship. Entry forms may be obtained at the local clubs, and entries may be put in to the ladies' secretaries of each club, but all entries must reach the ladies' secretary of the Victoria Golf Club by 5 p.m. Friday, September 28, accompanied by the entrance fee of $1.00.

The drawing for the qualifying round will be made and the result will appear in the press the following day. All matches will be eighteen holes.

In addition to the championship there will be driving, approaching and putting competitions, for which prizes will be given.

Competitors will be extended the privileges of the Oak Bay links on Friday, September 28, for practice.

Sons of England Score First Win In Soccer World

Defeated Navy by 2-0 in Opening Game; Blue-Jackets Showed Well

The Sons of England soccer team heralded the opening of the 1923 football season when they defeated the Royal Canadian Navy eleven two goals to nil at the Canteen grounds, on Saturday afternoon. For the opening match the game proved to be a good one, and a good brand of the Scottish national game was displayed during the course of the afternoon. A good crowd of fans turned out to witness the opening game, and they were not disappointed, as a few good snappy plays were staged by the players of both elevens.

The first half was well contested, the Navy putting up a strenuous fight against their opponents. The Englishmen won the toss, and they took the east end of the field with the sun in their eyes. The opening minutes of the first half saw both teams making rush after rush on the opposite goal; however, the backs of both teams proved impassable, and it was well onto half of the opening period before the Sons found the net for the first goal of the season. J. Smith, playing outside left for the winners, secured the ball about half-way down the field, and he dribbled up the side line, passing the leather to H. Smith, who was directly in front of the goal mouth, and he had no trouble in slipping the ball past the goalie.

The remainder of the half was seesaw playing, with the Sons having slightly the advantage.

Final Half

In the second period the Sons of England had a marked superiority over the Navy lads, and they pressed the whole of the half. Ten minutes from the whistle Shanks rushed in fast from the right wing and shot a terrific drive that gave the goalie no chance to save. From then the Sons had everything their own way, and only the sensational playing of Kensington, the Navy goalie, and their two backs, Ward and Rees, kept the score as low as it was.

The Navy have the makings of a crack team, and with a little more team practice they should be strong contenders for the city soccer laurels this year.

For the winning eleven Tupman, playing centre half, was the outstanding player, keeping his team on the go the whole of the way, and Shanks, playing outside right, also turned in a neat game.

For the Navy Kensington, in goal, played a remarkable game, while their two full backs, Ward and Rees, were the salvation of the team, and saved them from a more severe trouncing.

Percy Payne handled the whistle to the complete satisfaction of all.

The teams took the field as follows:

Sons of England—Goal, Hetherington; backs, Tuckwell and Church; half-backs, Langley, Tupman and Hill; forwards, J. Smith, H. Smith, Easler, Price and Shanks.

Royal Canadian Navy—Goal, Kensington; backs, Ward and Rees; half-backs, Kinch, Sargeant and Lewis; forwards, Hennessey, Morrison, Robinson, Palmer and Rood.

STAGES COMPLETE COME-BACK

BABE RUTH

Last year Babe Ruth was hailed as a "big bust." There were a lot of scribes who figured he was done. He had had a poor season, starting off with his long suspension for barnstorming and he had several clashes on the field with umpires and was banished. In the world's series he was an easy victim of the Giants' twirlers. At the close of the season Babe went into seclusion on his farm. He began to work seriously to stage a comeback. He reduced his waistline and reported at the training camp in the Spring in splendid shape. When the season opened he got down to work, and has done so well that he has been voted the most valuable player in the American League. All that remains for the Babe to put a fitting climax to his season's work, is to hit a homerun with the bases full in the world's series. Babe has proved what can be done when a man attends to business and lets the rest of the world go by.

Lord Birkenhead Enjoyed Fine Game of Tennis While in City

Lord Birkenhead and his secretary, Capt. Bevil Rudd, created an exception to a general rule here on Saturday when, instead of motoring off to a golf club to while away a few pleasant hours, they accepted an invitation from the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club for a tennis match.

Lord Birkenhead and Capt. Rudd had a fine doubles match with Thomas H. Leeming, president of the club, and H. G. Garrett, vice-president. The local pair was successful in winning but were forced all the way by the distinguished visitors.

Lady Eleanor Smith and her traveling companion, Miss Zita Jungman, enjoyed a doubles match with Mrs. Garrett and Miss Mary Campbell.

The party spoke highly of the courts and wished they could have spent more time on them.

YOUTHFUL CRICKET TEAM IS DEFEATED

Vets Halted Youngsters in Weak-Hitting Game; Cobbett's Bowling Good

Youth was not served in cricket on Saturday afternoon, when the sprightly "Sprigs" went down to defeat before the attack of the venerable "branches." The match was arranged to see whether or not oldtimers could carry their bat to victory against the young blood, and although neither side showed much at the bat, the "branches" won out by 126 for eight wickets to 92, all out.

Both sides failed to field their advertised line-up, but they played fairly good cricket. R. Wenman was the top batsman, giving the "Sprigs" a boost of 49. Only one other "Sprig" managed to reach double figures.

Anderson's 37 not out was the best of the "Branches," while Cobbett was next with 33.

Cobbet turned in a nice trundling feat, by taking seven wickets for 16 runs.

The scores were as follows:

HAMILTON A WINNER

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 24—Hamilton Thistles defeated Toronto Willys-Overland 2-1 Saturday in the first game of a home and home series for the soccer championship of Ontario.

Italian Champion Knocks Out Nilles After Short Fight

Rome, Sept. 24.—Mariono Barbarbesi, the Italian heavyweight pugilist, yesterday afternoon defeated the French heavyweight, Marcel Nilles, scoring a technical knockout in the first round of what was to have been a fifteen-round battle. The end came after two minutes of fighting. The referee stopped the fight to save the Frenchman from further punishment.

JAMES ISLAND TEAM LOOMS AS CHAMPION

Holland and Miss Richards Play Great Game in Wooden Tennis Court Tourney

The James Island team continued its unbeaten record in the Y.M.C.A. mixed-doubles tennis tournament on Saturday afternoon on the View Street courts. Miss Richards and Holland played a remarkably fine game and are now conceded an excellent chance of winning the championship.

After winning their first set 6-1 the James Islanders were forced to the limit in the second set by the Elks team. Stillwell showed rare form and, aided by his partner, Miss Fox, captured the second set 6-4 after a very speedy exhibition. The finest tennis of the afternoon was seen in the third set when both teams kept up a continual round of fast work which kept the spectators on their toes the whole time.

The Elks pair took the first three games, giving them an excellent chance to win, but the James Islanders came back strong at the close, and, after some rapid work, took the final set 6-4.

GIBBONS IS OFFERED MATCH WITH JOHNSON

Los Angeles, Sept. 24—Tommy Gibbons, heavyweight championship contender, who was said to have been offered a bout with Floyd Johnson, of Iowa, at New York City, in November, by Tex Rickard, said here he did not care to be quoted on such a match until he had seen his manager, Eddie Kane, who is coming to the Pacific Coast from New York. Gibbons was to leave early this morning for San Diego

Max Marston New Champion After Thrilling Game

Defeated Jess Sweetser on 28th Green in Longest Game in U.S. Golf History

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Max Marston, Philadelphia, carried Jess Sweetser, New York, defending champion, to the thirty-eighth hole and won the national amateur championship at Flossmoor on Saturday.

Setting a record for long final matches in the national amateur golf championship, Max Marston, of Philadelphia, on Saturday won the title on the thirty-eighth hole by steady golf and three stymies which he laid the former champion in the last four holes.

Sweetser did not maintain the fast pace he had held up to Saturday, although he was steady and scored seventy-five in the morning, but he slipped foud strokes over par on the third nine and let Marston get a lead of two up at the twenty-sixth hole, after he had kept the Philadelphian down or square for twenty-four holes.

Lost His Head

During the third nine Sweetser dubbed one drive, was not very good with a couple of others, popped short with two mashies and shanked a couple, in addition to missing some likely putts, and from two up at the end of the morning round, he was two down turning into the home stretch.

The receding champion made a good struggle during most of the final nine, squaring the match at the twenty-ninth and even getting one up at the thirty-fourth, but then the combination of unbeatable golf and stymies, added to slips on the part of Sweetser, allowed Marston to win.

At the thirty-fifth both were a trifle short in two, and Sweetser running up short, found himself not only playing into the low afternoon sun, but against the almost impossible stymie that Marston laid him close to the hole. Jess studied the situation motionless for fully two minutes while the enormous gallery stood dozens deep around the large green like statues.

Weakened from lack of food, not having eaten luncheon because of an attack of indigestion, Sweetser finally essayed to putt, but the English he gave the ball was not sufficient to put it into the hole, and the match was squared.

Wonderful Recovery

Again at the thirty-sixth after Marston had run his third shot over the cup, Sweetser ran two feet beyond him and stymied himself, but to the thundering applause, curved the ball into the cup for a birdie four.

Despite his physical weakness and the mental strain of which Sweetser said nothing, he outdrove Marston on the first extra hole and tried to carry the deep sand trap directly in front of the flag on the 518-yard hole. He fell short in the pit and pitched out short of the cup, but managed to halve in par, Marston having put his second into the rough.

The finish came on the second extra hole when Sweetser, after heeling his iron tee shot to the short rough at the near right hand corner of the green, ran up to within eight feet of the cup, only to have Marston's first putt stop four inches from the cup and directly on the line of his ball. The New Yorker tried the impossible, but his ball slipped by the hole, and he was no longer champion.

Record Match

Never before had the final round of the national championship gone so far, the longest previous match being thirty-seven holes in 1911 when Harold Hilton, of England, defeated Fred Herrishoff, of New York. It was, however, the second thirty-eight-hole match which Sweetser had lost this year as he was defeated by Chick Evans at Mayfield on the second extra hole in the semi-finals of the Western amateur championship which Evans won the next day for the eighth time.

In addition to the three stymies which Sweetser faced on the last four holes, Marston laid one on the seventh hole of the morning round and Sweetser lost that hole, 128 yards, four to three. Marston did not have to negotiate any stymies on the green, and he putted well all the way, but he was stymied on the thirty-third hole by a tree when the hooked his drive, and it was there that Sweetser squared the match for the last time. Marston also got tangled up with a fence on the sixth hole of the morning round and took a seven, and in addition to the six he took on the thirty-third, he had one on the twenty-eighth on account of an almost unplayable lie, in some chocolate drop bunkers. Sweetser accumulated six strokes on the seventeenth hole by slicing to a trap and on the nineteenth hole for the same reason. Outside of these holes neither player went above five at any place, and Marston shot five birdies out of the thirty-eight holes played while Sweetser got only three.

Anybody's Game

Not only was the golf good throughout for the final round, but the contestants were so evenly matched that it was anybody's victory nearly all the way.

Sweetser got a lead of one up at the fourth hole after halving the first three in par and increased it to his maximum advantage of the day on the sixth, where he won with a five after getting stymied by a three because Marston was too close to the boundary fence to shoot, dropped the advantage on the next two when his opponent first laid him a stymie on the seventh and then holed a long putt for a birdie on the eighth. Jess recovered his two hole advantage by winning the ninth and the thirteenth with a par four and a birdie two, and after dropping the fourteenth where Marston again holed in a long putt for a birdie three, he again led by two holes, after the sixteenth, and again

British Women Are Victors in Athletic Meet With French

Paris, Sept. 24.—British women yesterday in the Pershing Stadium defeated French women in a series of athletic events. The victors scored sixty points against thirty-seven points for the local athletes. The French girl, Violette Gourard Morris, broke the world's record for throwing the weight, making 21.01 metres. Miss Palmer, England, lowered the women's record for the 250-metres dash, covering the distance in 35 4-5 seconds.

Rain Interferes With Quality of Game and Crowds

Attendance at Old Country Soccer Games Saturday Smaller Than Week Ago

London, Sept. 24 (Canadian Press cable)—A week of wet weather had its effect on Saturday's games in the Association Football League, not only in the quality of the football, owing to slippery and muddy grounds, but also on the attendances, which aggregated 85,000 less than a fortnight ago, while the casualties in the game were more than usually prolific.

Cardiff City, the leaders in the first division table, were severely tested by Newcastle, which played like a good side but could not defeat the Welsh team. The draw of one-one was a feather in Cardiff's cap.

In contrast to the superiority and goalless games in the first division, it is curious to note that there were only three games drawn in the second division and one each in the two sections of the third division.

Newcomers Fare Badly

The newcomers to the second division, unlike their counterparts in the first, continue to hover around the bottom of the table. Bristol Rovers' win over Southend gave them encouragement, but Nelson seems to be preparing to meeting its old companions next season.

Watford suffered its first defeat against Queen's Park Rangers. Reading retained its distinction of not having won a match this season.

Local Net Team Won Doubles But Lost the Match

Starr-Reynolds Cup Will Remain in Seattle; Home Team Won All Singles

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 24.—For the third successive time the Seattle Tennis Club successfully defended the Starr-Reynolds-Starr trophy, emblematic of club supremacy in the Northwest. They turned the trick yesterday afternoon against the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club's three-man team, decisively beating the visitors by a score of 4 to 1. The playing of Capt. Leon de Turenne and Henry Van Dyke Johns, intersectional doubles champions, in their singles matches was the deciding factor.

Victoria came south, banking on two of Canada's best racket wielders to bring back the trophy to British Columbia soil. St. L. K. Verley, champion of British Columbia; D. Marshall Gordon and Johnny Proctor, a rangy youth who holds the junior championship across the line, composed the team of the Canadians.

Impressive Win

De Turenne swept to an impressive victory in the first singles set of the afternoon, when he defeated Gordon, 6-2, 6-0.

In the only three-set match of the day Henry Van Dyke Johns came from behind to defeat L. K. Verley, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5. Verley, the veteran, was always dangerous, however, and his chop stroke, catching the wind on several occasions, went for easy points. While Van was erratic at times, he was very steady in the third set, when points counted heavily. Verley came from behind to knot the count at five-all in games by some good net work, but Johns steadied and took the two deciding games with ease.

Won the Doubles

Army Marion, University of Washington star, and Robert Miller represented Seattle in the doubles, but they fell victim to the excellent play of Marshall Gordon and Johnny Proctor, of Victoria, 6-1, 6-4. Proctor's net ability was the most flashy of the four contestants, but Gordon backed him well.

Rain fell soon after the start of the fourth and deciding set of the tourney, between Leon de Turenne and L. K. Verley, which De Turenne won after a brilliant match, 6-4, 6-4. Turenne again stormed the nets, but was troubled a good deal by cuts and chops of his opponent.

As the rain was falling hard in the fifth set, it was called off, Van Dyke Johns having won the first set at 6-3 from Marshal Gordon.

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS STAR PLAYS BEFORE WINNIPEG AUDIENCE

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—James O. Anderson, famous Australian tennis star, and ace of the Davis cup team, was the guest of the Winnipeg Lawn Tennis Association here on Saturday. He took part in several exhibition singles and doubles against local players, and gave a large crowd a rare treat with his dazzling play.

Reds Are Still Factor in Race For N.L. Pennant

Cincinnati Four Games Behind While Giants Need Four Games to Win

New York, Sept. 24.—Cincinnati advanced in the National League race yesterday by defeating Brooklyn 5-1, while the Giants and Pirates were idle.

The Reds are now the only contenders for the league pennant, however, as the Pirates, even if they won all their games while the Giants lost all theirs, would still be half a game behind.

The Reds are now four to the bad. The Giants need four victories to ensure the world's series for New York.

Chicago defeated Philadelphia in the National League, 4-1, Osborne holding the Phillies to three hits. The Braves won a double-header from St. Louis 2-1 and 3-0. In the first game, St. Louis took nine hits to Boston's four, but tight fielding by Braves won the day.

Cleveland and Washington split a double header, Washington winning the first 12-10 and losing the second 6-0. Four pitchers tried to stop the Senators in the first game, while in the second Edwards hurled a shut-out, which was called in the seventh inning owing to darkness.

National League

Cincinnati, Sept. 24.—Cincinnati remained in the fight for the National League pennant by winning their final game from Brooklyn yesterday, 5 to 1. Luque pitched great ball, winning his twenty-sixth victory of the season.

Philadelphia	1	3	2
Chicago	4	6	1

Batteries—Ring, Head and Wilson; Aldridge and Hartnett.

American League

Washington, Sept. 24.—Cleveland and Washington divided a double header yesterday. The Nationals scored a 12 to 10 victory in the opener which was marked by free hitting and loose playing. Cleveland got to Johnson in the second, which was called at the end of the sixth inning on account of darkness and won 6 to 0. Edwards was never in trouble in this game.

First game—	R.	H.	E.

EASTERN TENNIS TEAM TOO STRONG FOR WEST

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 24.—The East took the measure of the West in the annual team tennis matches on Saturday, making a sweep of the four singles contests and dropping the doubles only after a stirring three-set battle.

Vincent Richards, the youngest member of the Eastern team, took the opening singles match from Howard Kinsey, the youth from the West, 6-3, 6-2. R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia, counted the second point for the East, defeating Robert Kinsey in an extra set match, 6-1, 7-9, 6-3. William T. Tilden, national champion, won from the Eastern ace, Wm. M. Johnston, 8-6, 7-5, and Wallace F. Johnson, the chop stroke king, won from C. J. "Peck" Griffin, 7-5, 8-6.

J. Johnston and Griffin triumphed over Williams and Watson M. Washburn, 7-5, 3-6, 7-5 in the doubles, a thrilling contest in which more than a dozen games went to deuce.

In his victory over Johnston, Tilden employed all the tricks of his powerful game.

Six Dozen Eggs is Miner's Side Dish at Nanaimo Cafe

Nanaimo, B.C., Sept. 24.—Bob Harrison, a Granby miner, consumed two dozen raw eggs in Philpott's Cafe early Sunday morning, after he had partaken of a meal consisting of good-sized helpings of veal cutlets, French fried potatoes, onions, tomatoes, toast, and a cup of coffee. He entered the restaurant with a friend, Selvio Bino, who is also employed in the Granby mines at Cassidy, and both men ordered a meal. After putting his order out of sight, Mr. Harrison pronounced himself hungry, but his remark was treated lightly until he offered to eat two dozen raw eggs provided some one else paid for them. The owner of the cafe immediately called him, and produced twenty-four eggs, whereupon the hungry guest proceeded to break three at a time into a tumbler and swallow them. As the last consignment disappeared a crowd who had left their tables to watch proceedings were amazed to find no signs of distress. Instead Mr. Harrison produced a ten-spot and was willing to wager that he could swallow three dozen more. This time no one took him up and soon afterwards the Granby residents left the cafe. One hour later they returned and Mr. Harrison again said he was hungry. Astonished onlookers who had watched his former feat offered to pay for two dozen more if he would consume them raw. With much apparent delight Harrison accepted and downed them four at a time, besides a cup of coffee. He told of having eaten six dozen eastern oysters raw on a bet without feeling the least bit uncomfortable.

OBITUARY RECORD

Service over the remains of Mrs. Ellen Billborne was conducted Saturday afternoon in the chapel of the B.C. Funeral Co. by the Rev. A. L. Nixon. There was a large attendance of sympathizing friends and many beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and hearse. The hymns sung were "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Lead, Kindly Light." The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. A. M. Sinclair, J. Munro, W. L. Sea, P. Fryatt, J. Drennan and R. Elsemore. Interment took place in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Funeral service over the remains of Baby McIntyre was held on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of his parents, 2540 Prior Street, by the Rev. J. Hinchliffe. Many friends were present and the little casket was covered with flowers. Interment was made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

The death took place yesterday morning, at the family residence, East Sooke, of William Cartwright, age eighty-two years. The deceased was born in Staffordshire, England, and has been a resident of this district for the past fifty-one years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Cartwright; two sons, Messrs. T. J. and E. A. Cartwright, at home, East Sooke; five daughters, Mrs. E. Falconer and Mrs. R. Atchment, of 846 Courtney Street; Mrs. H. Engelson, of 1325 May Street, and Mrs. A. Forrest and Mrs. R. Holmes, of Sooke; also fourteen grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. The late Mr. Cartwright was well-known on this Island, as he came to this city in 1862. The funeral will take place on Wednesday, September 26, at 2 o'clock, from the Sands Funeral Chapel, 1612 Quadra Street. Dr. T. W. Butler will officiate, and the remains will be laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

BOYS RIFLE CASH TILL

Police Now Seek Two Youths Who Made Sunday Afternoon Visit to Gorge Boathouse

City and Esquimalt police to-day are looking for two youths, said to be about twelve years of age, who are alleged to have rifled the cash till of the Gorge Boathouse Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

The boys, it is asserted, deposited a dollar and hired a boat. But they returned in a few minutes and said that they had changed their mind.

When the boathouse keeper counted his money after they had gone he was $5 short. The boys are blamed for the deficit.

CONVENTION OF BOARDS OF TRADE

The annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of British Columbia will be held in Vancouver on November 15, 16 and 17.

At to-day's luncheon the directors of the Victoria chamber were informed that the convention will have a strong programme for discussion, resolutions covering Imperial preference, town planning legislation and the personal property tax being proposed to be presented to the Provincial Government if endorsed.

CHAMBER WILL URGE PAVING ROAD TO BUTCHART'S

Special Committee Will Urge Improvement Upon Province and Saanich

President C. T. Cross this morning asked the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce to take action towards extension of the improvement of the West Saanich Road to Butchart's Gardens, or alternately, the permanent paving of the Keating Cross Road from the East Road.

"Everybody uses that road, and Mr. Butchart has done great things for Victoria," he said.

George McGregor said the time was ripe because of the imminence of the next Legislative session, as the Provincial contribution towards the cost was a vital factor.

E. Tomalin said five miles of road was required and the B. C. Cement Company would supply the cement at cost.

Mr. Beckwith said the tourists all were attracted to the wonderful gardens, and Mr. Butchart's complaisance was rewarded by destruction of his highway. He moved that all public bodies be asked to cooperate with a special committee of the Chamber to secure this paving.

J. O. Cameron seconded the motion, which passed unanimously.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce this morning filed a resolution from the Sidney Board of Trade which strongly supported continuance of the weekly half-holiday and protested against any interference with present practice in shops regulation or closing.

The Triangle Club of the Local Y.M.C.A. is starting its weekly suppers on Tuesday night of this week, it was announced to-day. From reports gathered around the "Y" lobby, the Club's season is going to be the best yet, as several special features are being instituted, and these will be outlined on Tuesday evening by Harold Cross.

In a short session of the City Police Court to-day the city took in $38 in fifteen minutes. The money was received by the city in involuntary gifts from offenders of the city's street regulations in regard to parking of cars and other matters. No criminal offences were dealt with on a lengthy docket of minor offences.

In a letter to the Mayor to-day the rector of Camden, New Jersey, asks to be informed of the names of several "reliable real estate agents" of this city. What are the taxes in Victoria, and income tax particulars, are other points the same interrogator wishes to clear up. The information asked will be sent to Camden, New Jersey, by return of post, it was stated to-day.

The Chamber of Commerce will urge the B.C. Agricultural Society to endeavor to hold future annual fairs in other weeks than that marked by Labor Day. At to-day's session of the executive J. L. Beckwith declared the action of retail merchants in ignoring Citizens' Day during the fair to be solely due to the action of the agricultural society in making an unwise selection of the fair date.

Shot and Left in the bush in terrible agony, A. E. Saul, caretaker of the Sooke Pipe Line, is reported as making favorable progress at the Jubilee Hospital. Mr. Saul received a charge of bird shot in his arm and right side when hunting last week. His assailant left the scene without stopping to see if the victim had sustained a mortal wound. Police seek word of the party who fired the shot.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce this morning discussed the gasoline situation with gratification that "Hon. John Oliver is fighting the case for us," as President Cross remarked. An interesting summary of the crude oil situation was submitted to the directors by Manager Beasley of the Union Oil Company, his letter being filed with a vote of thanks.

The party of Swiss editors which arrived here yesterday will spend to-night at the Cameron Lake Chalet, it was announced this morning by George I. Warren, secretary of the Board of Trade, who made arrangements with A. B. Calder, special representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway, for their transportation. They lunched at the Horseshoe Inn at Chemainus to-day.

The Victoria Lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F. is to receive a fraternal visit this evening from the officers and members of Vancouver Encampment, No. 1, in a body. The social committee have prepared a social entertainment consisting of a descriptive tour from Victoria to London, England, illustrated by lanetrn slides and interspersed with music and songs. A full attendance of members is invited.

Constable R. F. Brown, of Saanich Police, who lies in the Jubilee Hospital seriously injured as the result of an accident on Friday evening last, was reported as holding his own to-day. Though no change has taken place in his condition the officer is making a brave fight for recovery. Nine stitches were found necessary in a serious head wound he received when struck down by a motor car that suddenly rounded a corner on Quadra Street and knocked the officer down.

An enjoyable evening was spent in the Temperance Hall, Keating, on Saturday evening, when the South Saanich Women's Institute held a card party. The conveners were the Misses Hafer, Young, Gale and McNally. A special prize was given for the player with the lowest hand, this being won by Miss Stella Gold. First prize winners were Mrs. Kersey, Margaret Michell, Mr. Gold and Fred Michell, while the sealed prize was won by Mrs. Michell, Hilda Styan, Mr. Amey and Mr. Jeune. Refreshments and music brought the evening to an end.

CONSERVATIVE MEMBER DEAD

London, Sept. 24 (Canadian Press cable)—The death is announced of Charles Harvey Dixon, Conservative member of Parliament for Rutland and Stamford.

NEW TOKIO TO BE 7 TIMES LARGER WITH WIDE STREETS

Dr. Charles A. Beard, Retained by Japan to Aid Reconstruction

City Will be Twice as Populous With Concrete Apartments and Subways

From the chaos that is Tokio, made a shambles by earthquake, fire and tidal wave, there will spring a new city, a greater Tokio, seven times as large as the old and twice as populous, Dr. Charles Austin Beard, economist and government expert, formerly professor of politics in Columbia University, prophesied yesterday.

Dr. Beard, who has been retained by Viscount Goto, Minister of Home Affairs in the new Imperial Cabinet, sailed from Victoria yesterday on the President Jefferson of the Admiral Oriental line for Japan, to assist in the reconstruction work.

Tokio, he believes, will be an Occidental city in an Oriental setting. Where there were bamboo and tile structures, heatless and primitive, there will be steel and concrete apartment houses. Subways are contemplated; seven subway companies are already chartered. Modern wide streets will replace the narrow winding alleys that usage and habit bored through the thickly populated areas.

Samurai in the Path

All this will not come about without a struggle between old and new. Samurai who still live as their ancestors did a thousand years ago, squatting instead of sitting, sleeping on a floor instead of in a bed, are fighting for "laissez faire"—the old regime, "let well enough alone."

The youth of Japan, American trained and used to Western comforts, want Western innovations.

Neither faction will be completely successful, Dr. Beard thinks. Viscount Goto, a physician, formerly head of a hospital, administrator in south Manchuria, once Mayor of Tokio and now, as Minister of Home Affairs, in absolute charge of the reconstruction, is for compromise. He blends this old Shogun tradition with Occidental comforts; and around him will make the basis for an agreement. Goto is called the "Roosevelt" of Japan.

This battle, which has been waged for several years, has reached a crisis through the catastrophe which overtook the capital. Contrary to first reports, many of the 232 steel and concrete buildings withstood the shocks, while in the Honje and Fukagawa districts, thickly populated by the poorer class, the 360,000 frail native structures toppled like wheat before a hurricane. This will support the apartment house idea, which has many adherents.

Home Rule for Tokio

Governmentally and physically, Tokio will be reconstructed.

Dr. Beard, who had drawn plans for a greater Tokio when in Japan a few months ago, expects to see them put into effect. They call for home rule for Tokio. Heretofore it has been part of the prefecture of Tokio, which included Yokohama and forty or fifty miles of surrounding country. This system was based on the Prussian form of government as it was prior to 1914, when German professors were advisers of the Imperiol Government.

The new Tokio will include a circumference of more than ten miles. Its government will be based on American principles. Its population will be nearly 3,000,000. This includes 1,173,000 in old Tokio and more than 1,000,000 to be in the new lawmade city.

The transportation problem will be a vexing one, Dr. Beard said. At present American trolley systems link up the city, and the suburbs are connected by steam lines. Around the city runs an electric elevated line. But with the wreck of Tokio, Dr. Beard said, the population will move temporarily to the suburbs, as citizens of San Francisco did in 1906. This will probably result, as it did in that case, in a permanent commuting population. Therefore subways will be needed. What construction will resist earth tremors remains to be worked out.

Planned Like Washington

The street plan will be after the fashion of Washington, with radial streets. This presents difficulties, because the imperial palace is in the center of the city, more than a square mile with its grounds, and because of inviolable political reasons. A decree prevents tunnelling under the palace.

Another reason why modern structures are expected, Dr. Beard declared, is that the earthquake is likely to destroy the army and navy control of the government which has existed heretofore. Although the army is a necessity temporarily, he said, after order is restored the young brains trained on this side of the Pacific will be needed to refurbish the city. Thus, the earthquake is likely to obliterate the last vestiges of feudalism.

What type the new buildings will be Dr. Beard does not know. Mori Moto, of the Imperial University, wants the modern apartment house, and got 3,000,000 yen to build a model structure. Shimoda, a Japanese architect of renown, has been working on a series of buildings said to combine the best in both architecture. He hopes to please the extremists and the modernists with it.

Takes San Francisco Data

Dr. Beard takes with him exhaustive data on the San Francisco earthquake of 1906, and city-planning reports on Salem, Mass., badly damaged by fire a few years ago. In addition he has the best advice of American experts. The Russell Sage Foundation Committee for New York City and its environs, composed of city-planning experts, conferred with him.

There were George B. Ford, who rebuilt Rheims, almost destroyed by German shellfire; Frederick Kappell, secretary of the committee; Nelson T. Lewis, formerly chief engineer for the Board of Estimates; Lawrence Purdy, Frank B. Williams on law, and Flavel Shurtliff on zoning.

Although the Japanese government was willing and anxious to pay Dr. Beard's expenses, the Bureau of Municipal Research, of 261 Broadway, with which Dr. Beard was formerly connected, desired to contribute his skill to the Japanese in their distress and is financing his trip.

Dr. Beard organized the Japanese Bureau of Municipal Research, which developed many competent city planners and engineers. The Japanese project was financed by Yasuda, a rich banker, who endowed it with $2,000,000. Yasuda was assassinated by a fanatic who thought rich men were an evil to the state, and when his will was opened it was found he had left $2,000,000 more and bequeathed his house and grounds to the city for a park. Two of his sons were killed by the earthquake and his banks destroyed by fire.

When Dr. Beard was summoned to Japan in 1922 he outlined a system of expansion, especially governmental, which was to be followed out. This surve of Tokio was printed and translated into English. Dr. Beard was just having it run off the press when the earthquake made it ancient history, and the presses were stopped.

Dr. Beard is taking no chance regarding housing conditions. He is taking with him a tent which he and his wife expect to occupy.

Heretofore there has been strong rivalry between Yokohama and Tokio, the former being the seaport, as only vessels of light draft could go up the Sunida River. Now that Yokohama has practically been destroyed, the plan of dredging the river to make Tokio the New York of the Far East is expected to go through.

VETERAN OF FINE WAR RECORD DIES

Capt. Beaver Invalided From R.A.M.C. in 1918 Dies in Victoria

Many vetrans of the war operations in the Dardanelles and Mesopotamia will learn with deep regret of the death of Captain Hugh Atwood Beaver, R.A.M.C., which took place at Victoria, on September 21. Captain Beaver, M.B., B.Ch., L.S.A., joined the R.A.M.C. in November 14 and was appointed to H.M.S. Delta at Suva Bay and served through the evacuation, being afterwards appointed to H.M.S. Dunluce Castle in the Persian Gulf. For his services at Suva Bay Captain Beaver was promoted as Surgeon Specialist in July 1916. Though of splendid physique, his devotion to duty, which often entailed mang days without any rest whatsoever, undermined his constitution and he was invalided from the R.A.M.C. in 1918 in a precarious state of health. In addition to his magnificent war record Captain Beaver was presented with the Humane Society's medal for saving life on the South Coast of England.

A fitting resting place for one who served his country so well has been found near the Cross of Sacrifice at Ross Bay Cemetery. The cortege will leave Sands Funeral Chapel at 1.45 on Tuesday afternoon for Christ Church Cathedral, where Dean Quainton will conduct the service at 2 o'clock.

MANY INQUIRE INTO VACANCY

Comptroller of City is Position For Which Applicants Now Set Their Caps

If applications for copies of the by-law seting out the duties of Victoria's suggested managing comptroller are any indication of the number of names that will be submited for the post, the city council is likely to be swamped by a roster extending to over 100 names on October 8 next. The city commenced advertising on Saturday for a man to fill the post of managing the city on the terms laid down for him in the by-law defining his duties. The city declined to state the salary in advance, but that has not retarded applications, it is stated.

So far the city has received tentative feelers from men in Yorkton, Saskatchewan, Vancouver, Ladysmith, and a host of other places. Applications for the position, of course, are not yet to hand, not being returnable until noon on October 8, but urgent requests for copies of the by-law of limitation of duties are pouring in daily. City Clerk E. W. Bradley is hard pressed to find sufficient copies of the by-law to go around. City officials, it is understood, have ignored the advertisement.

VICTORIA GAINED GREAT PRESTIGE

"Stay a day in Victoria" was well "sold" to the Passenger Traffic Agents' Convention, when they were shown Victoria by the Tourist Trade group of the Chamber of Commerce. President C. T. Cross reported at this afternoon's session of the directorate.

He considered that the tour of the city, arranged in co-operation with the sight-seeing companies, had been one of the finest publicity schemes organized in the history of the city, and would result in special attention being given to Victoria-bound travelers.

EVENTS TO COME

Mr. Alexander Munroe, the missionary evangelist, will hold his Gospel and Divine healing meeting tonight in the hall at 1019 Cook Street. The Dr. Price hymn book will be used.

The British Israel Association will meet on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the B. I. Hall, 1019 Cook Street. A short address will be given by the president, after which the annual business meeting and election of officers will take place. All members are asked to be present, and the general public are cordially invited.

The parents and friends of the pupils of the Craigflower school are invited to be present at a social gathering in the school on Friday, September 28, at 8 o'clock. There will be a programme and refreshments.

The Saanich Central P.-T.A. will meet next Thursday, September 27, at 8 o'clock, in St. Mark's Hall. All delegates are to be present.

BLAZE DRAWS CROWD

Blazing linseed oil gave the Victoria Fire Department a few moments opposition and a Sunday afternoon crowd some excitement at the Staneland Paint factory, Bay and Shakespeare Streets, yesterday afternoon. The damage was confined to the loss of the oil.

PREMIER SETS OUT ON TOUR OF NORTH

He Goes to Fulfil Promise to Tell of Freight Rates Fight

Premier Oliver this afternoon left on his tour of northern British Columbia, B.C., during which he will follow the general route taken by Mr. Bowser, Conservative leader, and Mr. R. H. Pooley, K.C., his chief aide.

The Premier explained to-day that some time ago he promised to make a speaking tour of the northern cities and towns and discuss the freight rates issue before the Legislature met. The next couple of weeks will furnish him with his only opportunity to do this, he said.

The Premier's dates are:

September 26, Prince Rupert, evening meeting.

September 27, Anyox, forenoon meeting.

Sept. 28, Terrace, evening meeting.

Sept. 29, Telkwa, afternoon meeting; Smithers, evening meeting.

Oct. 1, Burns Lake, afternoon meeting; Francois Lake, evening meeting.

Oct. 2, Burns Lake; Fort Fraser for afternoon meeting; Vanderhoof, evening meeting.

Oct. 3, Prince George, evening meeting.

Oct. 5, McBride, evening meeting.

MILL BAY FERRY GIVEN SUPPORT

Chamber of Commerce Upholds Scheme For Better Up-Island Service

A proposal for a motor car ferry across Saanich Inlet to Mill Bay, supported by Duncan Board of Trade, was this afternoon endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce.

The following resolution was received from the Duncan Board:

"Whereas it is a matter of the highest importance to residents of this district that road communication with Victoria should be kept open throughout the year,

"And whereas the Malahat Road is frequently closed by reason of weather conditions during the Winter months,

"And whereas residents of this district view with alarm the serious delapidation to this road caused by the ever increasing heavy truck traffic,

"And whereas this branch has continually pressed for the operation of a car ferry across the Saanich Inlet in order to relieve this load on the Malahat Road,

"And whereas this branch understands that negotiations have been completed for such a ferry subject to the construction of the necessary landings

"Therefore be it resolved that this Branch through the Council of the Duncan Board of Trade or the Transportation Committee thereof do request the Minister of Public Works to provide landing facilities for such ferry and that this resolution be forwarded to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce with a request that they present it to the Minister."

CHINA EVASIVE ON DEMANDS ASKED

Diplomatic Corps Insists on Punishment For Bandit Outrages

Peking, Sept. 24.—China has replied evasively to the demands presented by the diplomatic corps as a result of the Lincheng bandit outrage last May, when foreigners, including Americans, were kidnapped from a train and detained in the Shantung Hills for weeks. The demands were that the Chinese government punish the provincial authorities under whose jurisdiction the Lincheng outrage was committed; re-organize the railway guard, under foreign supervision, and take other measures for the security of foreigners, besides paying heavy indemnity for the incident last May.

MANUFACTURERS TO MEET IN MONTREAL

President Will Outline Policy For Year

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Representatives from all parts of Canada are expected to be present at an important meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to be held in Montreal next Thursday. President C. Howard Smith will deliver an address in which he will outline the policy of the organization for the year. He will be followed by a number of other speakers, after which the executive council will hold its first session for the season.

EARTH OPENED UP BETWEEN HIS FEET

A. L. Robinson Tells Gyros of His Experience at Yokohama

Mr. Levack Praises Work of Red Cross and Also Relates Horrors of Tragedy

"I was standig in the street when the earth parted between my feet and opened up about three feet. Sulphur fumes emanated from the fissure, and I realized that it was an intense convulsion in the earth that was rocking things about, and within a few minutes had leveled Yokohama to the ground," stated A. L. Robinson, one of the Japanese refugees at present quartered at William Head speaking at the regular luncheon of the Gyro Club to-day.

Mr. Robinson, together with T. A. Levack and G. W. Gabaretta, attended the luncheon, and told of their experiences during the great tragedy which was enacted in Yokohama and Tokio three weeks ago.

Both Mr. Robinson and Mr. Levack were in Yokohama when the quake happened, and their wives were living on the Bluff. Both had somewhat similar experiences in rushing through the city, over twisted rails and obliterated roads, passing dead bodies, dodging fires and paddling through the water from the broken main.

On reaching the Bluff both men found their houses razed, and began to search for their loved ones. Mr. Levack literally tore the roof off with his fingers, and finally his wife emerged from a small hole, with most of her clothing gone.

Mr. Robinson failed to find his wife, and watched his house burn. He searched the ruins for ashes of his wife, but found none. For two days he walked about Yokohama trying to find her, and at last met a man who said that Mrs. Robinson was aboard a steamer. The overjoyed husband made for the ship with all haste and found his wife safe.

During his race to his home Mr. Robinson said that he passed at least two dozen street cars, stalled on the tracks with their passengers all electrocuted. "It was the rush hour, at noon," he said, "and the cars were crowded. Short circuits had been caused when the trolley wires fell to the ground."

"Our journey lay all through what had been the European residential district, and it was heart-breaking to see how all the lovely houses we had known so well, were now nothing but heaps of rubbish," said Mr. Levack in describing the trip down to the pier to go off to the refugee ships.

Mr. Levack made it known that the Canadian Red Cross had done everything possible to make them comfortable at William Head. He admitted that he was "broke," as he had lost everything in the disaster. The Red Cross had given him a new suit of clothes and boots, and he could not say too much for the workers.

Mr. Levack, who was a musical dealer in Yokohama, wishes to remain in Victoria, but Mr. Robinson, with his wife, are anxious to get back to London.

AFTER HORSE THIEF

Saskatchewan Police Here to Take Back Men to Stand Trial at Moose Jaw

Constable Davis, of the Saskatchewan provincial police at Moose Jaw, arrived in the city to-day to take W. A. Wilson, alias Paine, back to stand trial for the theft of horses alleged to have been made by the prisoner.

Wilson was arrested by Constables Owens and McPhail, of the local police force of the provincial police, recently as he stepped off a boat at Ogden Point docks. The prisoner and his escort leave to-day on the return journey to Moose Jaw.

HOSPITAL EXPERT TO SPEAK HERE

Dr. M. T. MacEachern Will be Among the Convention Speakers

Dr. M. T. MacEachern, now associated with the administration of the American College of Surgeons as associate director, who is to take a leading part in the sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons here on Friday and Saturday, was in the city yesterday.

Dr. MacEachern, of recent years, even before he left the management of the Vancouver General Hospital, has given much of his time to hospital standardization. It is now regarded as the greatest hospital movement in the world, embracing about 2,000 hospitals, backed by some 6,300 surgeons on the North American continent.

These hospitals have an approximate bed capacity of some 300,000, and an annual turnover of 5,000,000. It is claimed that the patient's stay in hospital is cut down, unnecessary surgery reduced, infections are reduced through better diagnostic facilities, and the lowering of the hospital death rate results.

Dr. MacEachern, who is now president elect of the American Hospital Association, is to explain the working principles of hospital standardization to the convention, and also will make a statement on approved hospitals, and the better care of the patients.

ship. His share in the negotiations with Parnell was a foremost one, the Ex-Chief Secretary acting as an intermediary for Mr. Gladstone with the Irish leader. Opposition to his attitude on the Eight-hour Labor bill cost him his seat at Newcastle in 1895. An opportunity, however, occurred to be elected in Montrose Burghs, a seat he continued to hold until he was called to the House of Lords in 1908.

In the split in the Liberal ranks which developed in 1898 Mr. Morley was the chief supporter of Sir William Harcourt. He turned again to literature, and his Life of Oliver Cromwell appeared during the Boer War, when his criticism of government politics led to unpopularity with the war party. In spite of his firm philosophical Radicalism he was able to hold strong support at a time when his personal opinions ran counter to public taste.

In 1903 came his great contribution to political literature in the Life of Gladstone, which is regarded as the greatest biography of this generation.

When the Order of Merit was established he was one of the first to receive the honor in 1902. The rising tide of Liberalism after Mr. Chamberlain split the Unionist party on tariff reform, brought him back to office, and in 1905 when Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman took office, he became Secretary of State for India. He dealt vigorously with the revolutionary movements in 1907, in spite of criticism at home. In 1908 he went to the Lords, continuing as Secretary for India in the Asquith administration, his regime being notable for Indian reform. In 1910 he resigned the portfolio, remaining in the Government as Lord President. Lord Morley, in the absence of Lord Crew, led the Lords during the session of 1911, and defended the Parliament Bill in characteristic speeches. In 1913 and 1914 he again took up the issue of Irish self government, with which his name will always be associated. In the early days of the war he retired, declaring:—

"The world is traveling under formidable omens, into a new era, very unlike the times in which my lot was cast."

Since then two volumes of "Recollections" have appeared, and a complete set of his works in 1921.

Other notable contributions to literature not mentioned in the above article include The Struggle For National Education, Rousseau, Diderot, Walpole, Richard Cobden, and numerous magazine articles. There is already quite a literature grown up in connection with his work, and influence on the nineteenth century.

Lord Morley, says A. G. Gardiner, left an editor's desk for a commission in the field. "When I see him I seem to see a row of phantom volumes—books that will never be written." Mr. Gardiner asks if posterity will endorse what Macaulay wrote: "That a man before whom the two paths of politics and literature lie open, and who may hope for eminence in either, should choose politics and quit literature seems to me madness."

Lord Morley's remarkable knowledge was used by the nation in a variety of interests, as a Trustee of the British Museum, a member of the Historical Manuscripts Commission, and in similar ways.

Lord Morley was regarded by his contemporary philosophers as the most representative Positivist, and with the recent death of Frederic Harrison probably the last of that generation of philosophy has now passed.

Justin McCarthy, who was one of the best judges of eloquence in his time, regarded Morley as an orator in the following terms:

"His voice is clear, resonant musical, the light of intellect gleams in his earnest eyes, his argument is always well sustained, and set off with varied and appropriate illustration."

One of the most remarkable demonstrations of confidence in a public man was the purchase of the magnificent Acton library by Mr. Carnegie for presentation to Mr. Morley, with its subsequent presentation by the statesman to an organization where its value will be for all time appreciated.

MAY DECLARE VACANT REPUBLICAN SEATS IN IRISH HOUSE

London, Sept. 24.—A rumor has been current here during the past few days that the Irish Government plans to pass an act declaring vacant the seats of the Republican members of the Dail on grounds that they failed in their constitutional duty by refusing to take their seats in the House. This is denied by the Dublin correspondent of The Morning Post, who points out the probability that the constituencies would promptly re-elect the same members.

FREED CRIMINALS MENACED CITY DURING DISASTER

Viligance Committees Fought Down Yokohama Looting, Says Liner's Captain

Vancouver, Sept. 24.—Questioned as to conditions on shore following the earthquake and fire, and as to truth about stories of looting and robbery, Captain Robinson, commander of the Empress of Australia, which brought refugees from the earthquake zone, said:

"Of course stories of that sort are exaggerated a great deal on every occasion, but at the same time there was certain amount of danger on shore. As it happened it was necessary when the fire was sweeping the city to release 1,000 prisoners from the jails. These men were all dangerous and there is no doubt that they committed many acts of vandalage. Among them were 200 Koreans. They were blamed for all the looting. Civilians shortly after the looting started formed themselves into what might be called vigilance committees."

Great as the disaster of the Japanese earthquake was there were alleviating circumstances that from the viewpoint of the white population rendered it less serious than it might have been according to Captain Robinson.

"The loss of life among the Europeans," he said, "is small considering the extent of the catastrophe. Two factors had much to do with lowering the death toll.

Followed Big Holiday

"First, the quake took place on the day following a big holiday and a great many of the European residents were away at mountain resorts on the fateful September 1.

"Secondly, the hour and minute of the day on which the first shock came could not have been better timed. It was just a couple of minutes before twelve and the majority of the whites had left their offices when disaster struck.

The result was that they were caught on the street and had a fighting chance for safety.

"Everybody acted so splendidly throughout the entire time that it is impossible to single out any individual for particular mention. The passengers were wonderful. I should like to say also that the Chinese crew of this boat, both by their energy and courage, distinguished themselves highly and are deserving of every praise."

EXPLAINS REASON FOR DIFFERENCE IN "GAS" PRICES

Company is Losing Money in States, Says Imperial Oil Man

Vancouver, Sept. 24 — To decrease the price of gasoline in British Columbia would mean that our company would have to shut down its refinery at Port Moody and bring in refined gasoline from the United States," said R. J. Kenmuir, manager of the Union Oil Company's refining and distributing organization in this Province.

Both the Union Oil and the Imperial Oil companies have received from Premier Oliver letters asking explanation of the disparity which exists between the price of gasoline in British Columbia and in the United States.

P. E. Lakin, manager for the Shell Oil Company in Vancouver, declared that conditions were abnormal in the United States and that he did not anticipate any further reduction in price in Vancouver, although the matter was entirely in the hands of the head office of his company.

Press for Action

In the meantime motorists are pressing for action by the Government to have prices brought closer to a par wit hthose in force in Washington.

A number of independent filling stations are understood to be importing refined gasoline from the United States at the low rates, but few cases are known where the retail price was brought below that of the large distributors.

Mr. Kenmuir and C. M. Rolston, manager of the Imperial Oil Company here, have referred the letters to their respective head offices.

"Because our company is losing money on its gasoline in the United States there is no reason why it should lose in Canada," said Mr. Kenmuir. I expect to receive a letter from the head office next week in which the whole situation will be reviewed.

"It will always be remembered that the American gallon is one-fifth smaller than that in Canada, and that there is a duty of 2½c a gallon on gasoline entering Canada from the United States. If, for instance, gasoline were selling in Seattle at 20c a gallon, the same gasoline, brought to Vancouver, would be 26½c."

DERBY WINNER IN POOR CONDITION FOR IMPORTANT MATCH

London, Sept. 24.—The Darby winner, Papyrus, on board the steamer Aquitania, bound for New York, is listless, according to a wireless message to the Daily Mail. He is refusing food and his condition is thought to be due to the severe weather.

TWO PERSONS KILLED IN LEIPSIC RIOT

Berlin, Sept. 24.—Two persons are reported killed and eleven wounded in a clash between nationalists and communists near Leipsic Sunday.

Despite the police ban upon such demonstrations the members of the German Nationalist Association, the steel helmet, after holding a meeting at Wideritschch, near Leipsic, are said to have attempted to march in close formation to Podelwitz. A collision with the communists occurred in the march.

PRICES FOR LIQUOR IN MANITOBA ARE HIGHER THAN B.C.

Winnipeg, Sept. 24 — Hard liquors officially went on sale in Manitoba to-day through the Government commission at prices which are substantially higher than those charged in British Columbia and Quebec. The system by which all purchases are delivered to the address of the permit holder is held responsible for the higher prices. Beer has been on sale to permit holders for two weeks, deliveries being made by the brewers.

JAMES ISLAND TEAM LOOMS AS CHAMPION

Won and Lost

Miss R. Melville and W. Erickson went through the first round successfully, disposing of Miss J. Witty and Warren Martin 7-5 6-4 after a very exciting struggle. Entering upon the second round, Miss Melville and Erickson finally lost to Miss G. Ponsford and V. Galbraith after a thrilling tussle in the second set which went 7-9 before a final decision was reached.

Miss Hamilton and W. Marshall (St. Andrew's) won from Miss D. Melville and Sewell (Y.M.C.A.), the second set proving the most exciting, the latter pair leading 4-2 for a time but, failing to hold their advantage, losing 4-6 after a fast exhibition.

Miss Parkinson and Vernot Jones, of St. Paul's, proved too strong for R. Bowers and partner in the consolation event. Jones' fast service and Miss Parkinson's steady play kept St. Paul's well in the lead throughout.

Miss Grant and Archie McKinnon (Y.M.C.A.) had a hard time disposing of Miss Moffat and Earl Squire, three sets being necessary for a decision, the last set going 7-5 before the Y.M.C.A. pair proved the victors.

The results were as follows:

First Round

Miss R. Melville and W. Erickson (St. Andrew's) beat Miss J. Witty and W. Martin (First Presbyterian) 7-5 6-4.

Miss G. Ponsford and V. Galbraith (St. Andrew's) beat Miss E. Ponsford and Barratt (Elks) 6-0 6-3.

Second Round

Miss Richards and Holland (James Island) beat Miss Fox and Stilwell (Elks) 6-1 4-6 6-4.

Miss Hamilton and W. Marshall (St. Andrew's) beat Miss D. Melville and Sewell (Y.M.C.A.) 6-1 6-4.

Miss G. Ponsford and V. Galbraith (St. Andrew's) beat Miss R. Melville and Edickson (St. Andrew's) 6-1 9-7.

Consolation

Miss H. Parkinson and Vernot Jones (St. Paul's) beat R. Bowers and partner (unattached) 6-1 6-3.

Miss Grant and A. McKinnon (Y.M.C.A.) beat Miss Moffat and Earl Squire (St. Andrew's) 6-2 5-7 7-5.

at the end of the morning round, having dropped the seventeenth.

Marston in Lead

The incoming champion, playing par thirty-six on the first half of the afternoon round, quickly squared the contest by winning the nineteenth and twentieth with pars when Sweetser's irons would not perform, and he squared it again with four on the twenty-fourth, where Sweetser dubbed his drive after dropping the long twenty-first to Sweetser's birdie four. Marston took the lead for the first time when he got a birdie two on the short water hole and quickly increased the advantage to two up, with a par four on the twenty-sixth when Sweetser popped his approach shot half way up.

Marston handed Sweetser the twenty-eighth hole by getting into trouble and the short twenty-ninth to square the match by falling short in a trap whence he requested two shots to extricate himself and complained of the gallery Marston again slipped on the thirtieth hole, where he pushed his tee shot into a trap, but he recovered well enough to get a par while Sweetser flubbed his short approach and barely halved. Sweetser again flubbed his approach on the thirty-second and was one down, but showing his previous game for two holes, which he made in par four, while Marston was wild, topping his tee on the thirty-third and slicing to the rough on the thirty-fourth, the defender set the gallery wild by getting a lead of one up and only two to go.

Never Had a Chance

In fact the Yale student had every right to expect a half on the penultiatme hole until Marston laid him the first of three stymies. From there on to the finish Sweetser never had a chance, his valiant efforts in circumventing Marston's stymie on the eighteenth merely prolonging his ultimate downfall for he was weak from the first extra hole and finally succumbed on the second.

President J. Frederick Byles, of the United States Golf Association, presented Marston with the Havmeyer Cup shortly after the thrilling match was ended, and complimented Sweetser on the strong fight he had put up.

PRINCE'S CANADIAN DAYS ARE CROWDED

Up With Birds For Snowball Fight; Dance at Night

Calgary, Sept. 24.—A snowball fight in the morning, eighteen holes of golf in the afternoon and a dance at night represent in short the activities of Lord Renfrew at Banff on Saturday. Lord Renfrew was up with the birds on Saturday morning and for more than an hour he and the members of his staff enjoyed a snowball fight. The sun came out later in the morning and after a quantity of snow had been swept from the greens, Lord Renfrew enjoyed eighteen holes of golf.

In the evening he attended a dance in the Banff Springs Hotel, the Prince choosing as his partners during the evening Miss C. Lang, of Philadelphia; Miss Dorothy Lougheed of Calgary; Miss M. Kennedy and Miss Fern Brewster, of Banff.

EARTHQUAKE THRILLS FOR ROYAL PATRONS

"Wandering Daughters" is Feature Film, With Yokohama Disaster

To make a picture dealing with runaway girls entertaining and thoroughly pleasing without being too critical, too preachy or using risque scenes to illustrate the author's thoughts, is no easy task for any director, but in "Wandering Daughters," a First National attraction showing at the Royal Theatre now, James Young, who directed Guy Bates Post's two initial screen successes, "The Masquerader" and "Omar the Tentmaker," has accomplished the feat with unusual grace.

"Wandering Daughters" deals with exactly what its title suggests, but Dana Burnet, its author, had a number of unique and original sequences to put into the story and Director Young not only seemingly has taken full advantage of the story's possibilities, but has also used his broad knowledge of screen technique and public interest to develop many scenes just about as entertainingly as one could reasonably expect.

Marguerite de La Motte and Marjorie Daw, two beautiful young players of interesting contrast in type, have been given the principal girl roles in the picture and acquit themselves creditably. The usually quiet, frightened little Marjorie turns out to be a gay young miss with a will of her own while Marguerite adds charm to the part of the girl who had will power enough to withstand life's tempting adventures.

Unquestionably first honors among the men should go to William V. Mong as the father whose faith in his daughter is well rewarded. His part affords the best chances for a display of rare emotions and Mr. Mong delivers his uual sterling performance. Noah Beery, ever a delightful villain, creates sympathy for his part of the father who meant to shield his daughter by his despotic control of her social life and failed to do so. Allen Forrest as the male vamp reminds one of Lew Cody, so perfect is his deceit. Alice Howell, former comedy star, and several other players well known to screen fans, lend their energies to making "Wandering Daughters" one of the picture play events of the current season.

As an extra added attraction this week the Royal will present to its patrons one of the most awe-inspiring and thrilling productions that it has ever presented which will be the earthquake at Yokohama. This scenic production will show the Ss. Empress of Australia leaving Victoria, scenes in the harbor, and the earthquake and fire which followed so closely in its path. It will be presented afternoon and evening.

COLUMBIA HAS "CROOK THRILLER"

Whirlwind Plot Leaves the Audience Breathless From Sustained Thrills

Crook stories have a fascination all their own, whether in book, on stage or screen; and when they are well done, they are fairly certain to supply interesting entertainment. "Missing Millions," a Paramount picture starring Alice Brady, which is now showing at the Columbia Theatre, has been excellently produced and in an excellent example of the crook film.

It is a good cast and good direction, and tells an absorbing story, with the suspense sustained up to a satisfactory ending.

"Missing Millions" is a revenge story. It opens with the spectacular theft of a wealthy woman's diamonds by the heroine crook and her partners in crime, but on the same night, her father, a crook in his own right, becomes innocently involved in the assault of the wealthy woman's husband, a double-crossing flint-hearted financier, and the latter railroads the father to prison, after promising to drop the case on the return of the stolen jewels.

The chance for revenge comes when the millionaire, Cantwell, finds himself besieged by creditors and in order to meet his obligations has a large consignment of gold sent him from Europe. The girl and her pals decide to steal it, going to Europe to come back with the gold for the purpose. Through vamping the purser, the girl obtains the keys to the strong room of the ship and the theft is successfully carried out. Of course, the plot of the winsome crook fails, but Cantwell is ruined just the same and all turns out happily.

Miss Brady is ably supported by David Powell, Frank Losee, Riley Hatch, John B. Cooke, William R. Mack, George LeGuere, Alice May, H Cooper Cliffe, Sidney Dean, Beverly Travers and Sidney Herbert.

VICTOR EDMUNDS AT CAPITOL NOW

The many admirers of Victor Edmund's Canada's foremost tenor, will hail with delight his reappearance at the Capitol this week. Fresh from his triumph at the Vancouver Capitol, where his singing has met with the greatest success, Victoria audiences will have an opportunity to again hear their own gifted singer before he leaves to fulfil his numerous important engagements.

SIX FINE ACTS ON PANTAGES BILL

Splendid Programme For the Pantages This Week

Six fine acts, including two big headliners, and a side-splitting picture comedy, go to make up the Pantages offering, which will open with one show at 9 o'clock to-morrow evening and continues on Wednesday and Thursday with the usual matinee and two night performances.

Dave Vine and Luella Temple appear in their comedy success "Making Nonsense An Art," which keeps the audience in roars of laughter.

The Lomas company of eight all-star artists present their new comedy production "From the Bottom to the Top," which is a clever programme of comedy, knock-about acrobatics and high stilt walking.

Denis Chabot and Nonette Tortini, billed as "The Boy from Belgium" and "The Girl from France," have an Americanized satire "When the Clock Rings," which includes comedy cross fire talk, singing and instrumental numbers.

Olga and Nicholas, two of Russia's interpretative dancers, have an artistic creation presenting something new in the art of terpsichore, introducing real Russian stepping and whirling with classic posing and toe dancing.

Dorothy Kelly and Jess Wise offer their well known comedy "Backfire," which is a programme of smart comedy repartee and clever comedy dancing.

Master Claire Emerson, phenomenal boy soprano, is conceded to be the possessor of the clearest and truest soprano voice before the American public to-day. His vocal training started at the age of four years, and was given gratuitously by vocal teachers who recognized the genius he was endowed with. His first public appearance was in the Sistine Cathedral, New York, which is noted as having the most perfect choir of youthful singers in America. Press and public are unanimous in his praise and Pantages patrons have a treat in store which they will remember.

On the screen will be shown a good scenic and the latest century comedy, "The Imperfect Lover," featuring "Brownie," the wonder dog.

The overture will be "Love Tales," introducing old time melodies, with "Tony" Jensen directing.

"WEDDING BELLS" AT PLAYHOUSE

Compton Players to be Seen to Advantage in New York Hit

One of the biggest successes of recent years in London and New York is to occupy the boards at the Playhouse this week—"Wedding Bells." "One hundred per cent. success," is the way it was greeted by one of the leading New York critics, and certainly such a commendation was fully deserved, for a more sparkling little comedy cannot be imagined.

It is excellently suited to the Playhouse cast, and Mr. Compton's popular company are certain to score another big success with it. Mr. Compton will be seen as Reggie Carter, a young man who has been divorced from his wife, owing to a foolish misunderstanding, and is on the verge of marrying a second time when his erstwhile wife pays him a visit with the real object of winning him back again.

Miss Peggy Dundas will have the role of Rosalie, the first Mrs. Carter, and will be seen again in one of those parts which suit her best, and in which she is thoroughly at home.

Some amusing matter is furnished by two English servants, these will be played by Miss Agnes Burton and Herbert Leslie, so Playhouse patrons will be sure of some laughable scenes between them. George Durham will play a man-about-town, and Bruce Bridon a love-sick poet, whilst William Marshall has a telling character role in Fuzishaki, a Japanese servant.

Miss Cathleen McDonagh will be seen to advantage as Mrs. Hunter, an American mother, and Miss Belle Eilers will play as her daughter, Marcia, a most determined and masterful young lady.

An auspicious start has been made by the Compton Comedy Company for their Winter season, and Mr. Compton hopes to be able to carry out to the full his intention of presenting really worth while plays to the Victoria public.

GRIPPING TALE OF FROZEN NORTH IS CAPITOL FEATURE

"Where the North Begins" is Title of Super-Drama of Silver Screen

One of the finest pictures that ever came to town opens to-day at the Capitol Theatre, where it will command attention for a full week. This is, "Where the North Begins," a story of the north woods, featuring the marvelous train dog, Rintintin, who is so clever that one feels a man's brain must be lodged in his skull.

The setting in the far north is a fitting background for the tense drama unfolded before the handful of mortals living and struggling in one of the outposts and fringes of civilization, a remote Hudson Bay trading post.

This Warner Brothers classic of the screen has everything. The wolf-dog episodes bring out the adventurous strain in every spectator, and the struggle of Shad Galloway to get rid of the young French-Canadian trapper, Gabriel Dupre, and so have free Tavish in his power, is dramatic, bound to provide a session of undistilled entertainment in which everything else will be forgotten. Such a thing could be said only of an unusual picture, and that is just what "Where the North Begins" is.

It is the sort of "movie" worth going out of one's way, if necessary, to see, and for that reason it is strongly recommended. To overlook it is to miss a picture with a fine plot, perfect acting and wonderful photoplay—the three things necessary to the real movie fan's enjoyment.

Chester M. Franklin directed the picture. The cast consists of Claire Adams as Felice McTavish, Walter McGrail as Gabriel Dupre, Pat Hartigan as Shad Galloway, Mytle Owen, Charles Stevens, Fred Huntley and Rintintin, the police dog.

Victoria Boy to Sing

Victor Edmunds, the Famous Canadian Tenor, is also appearing this week at the Capitol. Ever a big favorite with Victoria audiences, his return engagement at the Capitol this week is sure to be highly popular.

STIRRING OFFERING AT THE DOMINION

Story of Elinor Glyn Theme of Film

Corinne Griffith and Frank Mayo are the two leading stars playing in the big Goldwyn-Cosmopolitan Special, "6 Days," by Elinor Glyn, which plays at the Dominion Theatre all this week starting to-morrow. The story tells of two lovers who met on the windswept decks of an ocean Greyhound, racing from Manhattan's turmoil to the silk-stockinged boulevards of carefree Paris. The hero of the novel was in the Government Service, carrying with him important documents concerning a valuable state secret. She was a siren in satin, breathing the orchid atmosphere of wealth. She laughed at the governments, defied danger, scandal and ruin to win this clean, strong man. Her story—the most exciting from the pen of Elinor Glyn—has come to the screen with a dazzling brilliance against a background of unrestrained passions. The supporting cast includes such favorites as Claude King, Myrtle Stedman, Charles Clary and Robert de Vilbis.

MUSIC LOVERS' NIGHT AT ROYAL

Mr. A. Prescott, director of the Royal orchestra, has arranged a very fine programme of music for the presentation of "Wandering Daughters," which is the feature attraction at the Royal all this week. In addition to this he has also arranged a very fine series of music to accompany the great scenic marvel, the Earthquake at Yokohama, this being a specially added attraction to the usual picture programme. Some of the numbers to be rendered during the evening are as follows:

Overtures:
"Within the Walls of China,"—K. A. Lively
"Canzonetta" ..... Rudolf Frimb
"Un Peu D'Amour" ..... Silesu
"Chanson Seramade" ..... R. Drigo
Selection:
"Blue Kitten" ..... R. Frimb

MOOSE TO HAVE BAND

Victoria Lodge Making Efforts to Bring United States Minister of Labor Here in October

Victoria is to have a Moose band.

This was announced to-day by officials of local lodge No. 1390, Loyal Order of Moose. S. Rogers, late bandmaster of the Fifth Regiment, will have charge of the new organization.

It is planned to increase membership of the lodge here to 500 before the end of the year.

The drill team is already practising for the big time at the 1924 convention of the Northwest Moose Association at Portland.

The Hon. Jas. J. Davis, Minister of Labor in the United States Government and director general of the Moose, will visit the Pacific Northwest Moose lodges sometime during October and strong pressure is being brought to bear to have Victoria included in his itinerary. Mooseheart, the home of the children of departed Moose, now houses some 1,200 little ones and Moosehaven, the home of the aged and infirm members and wives, is adding to its numbers all the time. Social activities, dances and whist drives are being planned for the Winter.

STOCK COMPANY TO PLAY HERE

Will be at Pantages Four Performances Weekly

Opening at Pantages Theatre on Friday evening of this week, Macy and Baird's Comedians will alternate each week for an indefinite season, between Victoria and Vancouver, playing three days in each city. As the "Pan" here will be occupied on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays by the regular road show, the Macy-Baird organization will play on Friday night, Saturday matinee and night, and Monday night. The company is composed of some fifteen capable and experienced artists, and has been covering the territory from Spokane north, south, east and west, in Washington and Oregon for over two years with marked success, playing anywhere from three weeks to three or four months in each town, according to its size; and the fact that it was able to play so long in the larger towns is testimony that the three and four-act plays they present are what present-day audiences want. They have a practically unlimited repertoire of the latest and best comedies and dramas and will be able to change weekly or oftener.

For the opening on Friday evening, "Marion Grey," a four-act rural comedy-drama has been selected, which will be repeated for Saturday matinee and night, and on Monday night another four-act comedy-drama, "Clouds and Sunshine" will be given. Both have had big success elsewhere, which it is expected will be repeated here. The comedy element is featured largely in all of the plays, and "Toby" is going to be a household word before many days. An especially attractive feature will be the splendid vaudeville numbers given between each act so that there are no waits. The prices are distinctly "popular" for a stock company.

WILL AID MOVEMENT OF TRAVEL NORTH

F. A. Travers, of Southern Pacific, in City

The Southern Pacific Railway system will do everything in its power to aid the diversion of traffic of a passenger nature toward the Pacific Northwest and particularly to Vancouver Island, said F. A. Travers, inspector of dining car service, to The Times yesterday afternoon. Mr. Travers is making a tour of this section of the country, accompanied by Mrs. Travers.

He indicated there had been a tremendous increase in the amount of business handled during the past Summer over his road for all points in this part of the continent. Mr. Travers believed there was no reason to doubt that a continuation of this situation would prevail in 1924, probably with substantial increase, owing to the favorable prospects. Organization of travel had become so important a factor that instead of counting the tourists in hundreds, they might be reckoned in thousands. The function of a dining car inspector was to see the traveler well fed—for "no man will travel over a line again where the dining car does not measure up to the standard of competitors," Mr. Travers stated.

Mr. Travers, who was formerly in business in Singapore, has for nearly six years been associated with the Southern Pacific line, with headquarters at Oakland, California.

He has an invitation to visit White House, Washington, when in the East.

Established 1908

"Advertising is to business as steam is to machinery."

ADVERTISING IS A SCIENCE

Advertising is to a business what tractors and fertilizers are to a farm. The better the farm the more deserving of good cultivation. The better the business, the more deserving of scientific advertising. Advertising creates value, diminishes rather than increases the cost to the public, by reducing the overhead and giving fullest development to the genius of the manufacturer. There is not a business that correct advertising cannot make better.

Any sort of nervous gesture is annoying to others, but the habit of "fussing" with the hair is particularly out of place at the table, where it may cause a loose hair to fall on the table or in the food.

¶ Well Mother! The children are settled down in school again but the old problem still faces you. It is up to you to provide everything for autumn and winter from boots to a bottle of cough mixture.

¶ It's a busy time for you. New clothes are needed for growing boys and girls; more substantial food for cool days must be thought about; books and games for the approaching long hours of darkness are needed to keep home happy.

¶ Let your newspaper help you. A few minutes spent every day in reading the daily store news in the advertisements which the merchants have inserted for your information will save you many fatiguing hours of shopping.

¶ Which stores can supply you, and most economically?

¶ Learn all this by reading the daily store news comfortably in your home newspaper in your own easy chair.

offered as a going concern, or will exchange for Vancouver Island Farm.

COMPRISES ABOUT 56 ACRES TOGETHER WITH A MODERN DWELLING

This magnificent place is situated on the main Kelowna-Vernon Road where motor stage passes twice daily. The new branch of the C.N.R. will have a station about one mile distant.

Soil is mostly black loam with gravelly sub-soil. Thirty-two acres in trees, eleven acres in hay, balance pasture. The whole is bench land sloping West.

The orchard consists of about 2,150 trees, about 1,900 apples, 100 plums, balance cherries, pears, etc.—all splendid trees. Also plantation of currants, raspberries, loganberries, etc.

Since the trees have come into bearing there has been a regular annual crop of about 5,000 boxes of apples, plus cherries, plums, etc.; also about fifty tons of alfalfa and about twenty to thirty tons of roots.

The orchard is very clean and crops are expected to increase annually. Good water system and good irrigation.

Buildings consist of eight-room house with cement basement, five bedrooms, bathroom, hot and cold water, large double sitting-room, good kitchen, pantry, etc.; large veranda, septic tank, barn 26x56, stabling for six head, garage, ice house, chicken house, etc., etc.

For further particulars apply at this office.

NOTE.—This place is fully equipped with the most modern tools and implements, which can be had at valuation.

SHORTS COVER NEAR CLOSE

(By Burdick Bros., Ltd.)

New York, Sept. 24.—The general run of week-end reviews was favorable interpretation, although there was no increase of a tangible nature in so-called Fall demand for goods. The outlook, however, for potential inquiry seemed to be the subject of rather favorable comment.

The market early was inclined to be strong, reflecting, no doubt, the encouraging advices from abroad touching on the Franco-German situation. The early bulge seemed to attract considerable offerings, mainly from professional source, with the result that values eased off. In the late dealings some short covering made its appearance which brought about moderate rally.

Specialties like Dupont and Corn Products were strong spots in the afternoon.

Fundamentally speaking, the market appears to be in rather a stabilized condition, but the outside inquiry has not yet been very gratifying.

HEALTHY TONE ON WHEAT MARKET

Liverpool Quotations Are a Steadying Factor

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—Despite heavy receipts over the week-end, steadiness and higher prices featured the wheat market here to-day. Liverpool quotations were a steadying factor. The close was the high point of the day and showed a gain of ¼ to ⅜ as compared with Saturday. Inspections not available.

CHICAGO GRAINS RALLY TO-DAY

(By Burdick Bros., Ltd.)

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Wheat—Huge Canadian deliveries, an increase of 2,641,000 bushels in the visible supply, with liberal receipts and a slow cash demand were all ignored by the trade. Commission houses continue to take the slack out of the market, and so long as the pressure is light the market goes up on this buying. Foreign news reflects a somewhat better political outlook. The receipts here were small, but local stocks increased 276,000 bushels for the week and the total is now 19,121,000 bushels here. The total visible is over 63,000,000 bushels, or nearly double the total of a year ago.

Winnipeg reports total country marketings up to September first 59,000,000 bushels, of which 22,000,000 have been inspected and about 7,000,000 bushels shipped down the Lakes. The situation does not look especially strong, but the market acts contrary to the news, which suggests that bear sentiment had become too unanimous with bear features discounted. However, we would still wait for the setbacks if purchases are to be made.

Corn—Trade active toward the last, after a dull session with a strong undertone all the time.

Le Count estimates a crop of 3,200,000,000 after allowance for frost damage. He also states that old corn has seldom been as scarce as at present. This is in line with our advices.

Visible stocks increased 651,000 bushels. Receipts here are not heavy and primary receipts are much smaller than a year ago.

Cash corn, however, was half a cent lower relatively with shipping sales of about 70,000. The mark etacts well, but we would wait for the reactions on which to buy. We believe in maintaining a comparatively bullish opinion on corn.

Oats—Visible stocks increased 650,000 for the week. Receipts were 140 cars, cash sales 25,000. Prices steady for spot oats. The trade is moderate with the undertone firm with other grains.

Look for heavy consumption of oats owing to high priced corn.

BRITISH COLUMBIA LEADS IN PHONES

More Users Per 100 Than in Any Other Province

Ottawa, Sept. 24 (Canadian Press)—There are more telephones in Canada per 100 population than in any other country except the United States. This is shown in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in which the proportion of telephone users in Canada per 100 population is set at 10.53. British Columbia is first with 15.19 telephones per 100 population; Ontario 13.59; Saskatchewan 12.24; Alberta 10.89; Manitoba 10.78; New Brunswick, 6.96; Nova Scotia, 6.87; Quebec, 6.50; Prince Edward Island, 5.8.

Saskatchewan showed the greatest increase since 1914, and Ontario comes next. Compared with last year telephone revenue increased seven per cent. and with a reduction in operating expenses of four per cent. net revenues increased $2,686,000. Total salaries were reduced $1,694,000, or eleven per cent. with a reduction of 622, or three per cent. in the number of employees.

LORD BIRKENHEAD ENTERS PLEA FOR TROUBLED EUROPE

Must be Helped For Prosperity of World, He Says

Former Lord Chancellor Holds Rapt Attention of Great Victoria Audience

Speaking to an audience of about 500 persons at the Empress Hotel Saturday night, representative of the Canadian and Rotary Clubs, of Victoria, and including prominent representatives of the judiciary and bar, Lord Birkenhead, former Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, held the entire audience under the spell of his oratory as he outlined the Dominions' relationship to the Motherland, and the responsibilities of nations towards disturbed Europe.

The Orator

The comparatively young statesmen whose rapid ascent of the ladder of fame has made him a centre of interest throughout the world was given a prolonged ovation as he entered the ballroom. His tall commanding presence gave him the distinguished appearance appropriate to a man who has reached political heights. Although the material of his address was followed with rapt attention, his manner of delivery was undoubtedly a surprise to many.

As the fighting F. E. Smith, championing the causes for which he stands vigorously and fearlessly, an impassioned address was generally anticipated. Lord Birkenhead spoke, however, more as the parliamentarian, driving home his arguments by the sheer strength of his utterances, or as the eminent jurist giving well sustained judgments than as the political campaigner swaying a crowd by the force of his oratory. He appeared more in the role of a member of the House than as a platform orator, and calmly, but none the less effectively drove home his points in a conversational manner, but with fine cultured language making every word tell.

On the question that came to the fore at the recent Canadian Club convention, the relationship of England to European countries, Lord Birkenhead had something to say.

The Affirmative Answer

"Some may ask, he said, "are we wise to concern ourselves with the affairs of Europe. There is a sense in which we can answer the question in the negative if we take the stand that a nation as a individual should work out its own salvation. There is also a sense in which we should answer in the affirmative when we agree that nations over which ruin and disintegration stalk like spectres in the wake of war need help and sympathy.

"The acceleration of means of communication in recent years has alterated the whole international situation and made the world one consolidated whole. 'I do not believe it will be possible for a nation to isolate itself from what goes on in the rest of Europe. No country can look forward to the time when it will be independent of foreign markets. Some nations are independent at the present moment, but a prosperous consuming purchasing world is a supreme necessity for the whole world.

"It would appear to follow that the very prosperity of the Dominion of Canada depends on a wise and humane policy in Europe with the object of restoring as soon as possible the purchasing power of the world as a whole."

He defined the British Empire as an association of self-governing communities which decided partly by reason of common traditions and sentiments and partly by reason of mutual affection and pride to band themselves together as an association of equals on matters which effect the whole, but act independently on matters which effect them only individually.

The Premier's Visit

Referring to Premier Mackenzie King's visit to England he said the Premier of Canada was on an equal footing to the Premier of Great Britain on great imperial matters as the war had witnessed a great development in the constitution of the Empire, which has led to an annual meeting to discuss the policy of the British Empire.

After speaking of the effects of the war, Lord Birkenhead referred back to the exciting days of 1914. "Never shall I forget," he said, "the thrill of emotion in the House of Commons when the message came from India stating India would range side by side with the rest of the Empire. The same week, with incredible zeal, Canada threw itself into the struggle, and the same week came the message from New Zealand: "To the last man and to the last penny." The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the late General Sam Hughes. The Empire emerged from the war with possibly more features of coherence and stability than ever before in her tangled and confusing history, and he hoped a wise and prudent statescraft would contribute to make the Empire a permanent constitutional phenomenon, and hold before the whole world ideals of manly and self-respecting peace, he concluded.

Rev. W. Leslie Clay, D.D., president of the Victoria Canadian Club, who presided, in introducing Lord Birkenhead, referred to the resolution passed by the Canadian Club convention, requesting the Imperial Government to send out a representative at least once a year to acquaint Canadians with problems of British administration and at the same time familiarize himself with Canada's problems.

In answer to the reference Lord Birkenhead laughingly remarked: "The present government did not send me. I think it quite unlikely they would do so. When it was announced I was coming to Canada the Government showed no emotion. They neither resented the action, nor proffered objections." The Earl also mentioned that he had frequently visited Canada before, but had never previously come as far West as British Columbia. He spoke appreciatively of the extraordinary beauty of Victoria's surroundings and climate.

James Adam, president of the Rotary Club, moved a vote of thanks to Lord Birkenhead.

BISHOPS TO COME

Rt. Rev. Dr. J. C. Farthing, Bishop of Montreal, and Rt. Rev. David Williams, Bishop of Huron, are expected to visit Victoria next week, as a sequel to the sessions of the General Synod missionary board sittings in Calgary last week.

MUSICAL RECITAL WILL AID Y.W.C.A.

Support Extended by Well-Known Local Artists in Fine Programme

Now that the cooler evenings are here and indoor entertainments resume their sway the announcement of a musical recital presents a strong attraction. The recital to be held on Wednesday evening at the Empress Hotel in aid of the Y.W.C.A. educational work is under the capable direction of Miss Kate Hemming, and will include some very delightful items. Contributing to the programme are a number of well-known Victoria artists, who will assist Miss Hemming's pupils. Among those who will be heard at the recital are Mesdames Arthur Gore, H. Charlesworth, J. C. Shaw, the Misses Marjorie Broley, Iris Statford, Peggy Steine, Louise Buckley, Annie Miller, John Guy and Master Douglas Hodgson. Mesdames J. O. Cameron and P. L. James, with Miss Erica Ulin will act as accompanists.

The committee in charge of the educational work of the Y.W.C.A. have arranged some attractive features for the Winter programme. A course in public-speaking will offer an invaluable aid to those who lack self-confidence or the gift of expression. Classes in French, Italian and the study of art will profitably fill the Winter evenings, while the course in first aid is one that should certainly draw a large number of entrants.

Enrolment can be made at any time at the Y.W.C.A., 745 Yates Street, and applicants should waste no time in giving in their names as the classes commence the first week in October.

In addition to the secular programme a Bible study class under the capable leadership of R. G. Howell, will be held on Wednesday evenings, free of charge to all who care to take this opportunity of gaining a better understanding of the greatest of all books. It is hoped that a large attendance at this and the other classes will demonstrate the practical value of the G.W.C. A. work in Victoria.

Considerably increased tire mileage can be obtained through the careful handling of a car. If the driver starts and stops his car with a jerk and trys to turn corners on two wheels, he can soon expect blowouts. It is estimated that by careful driving one can increase tire mileage fully 30 per cent.

SWISS EDITORS PLEASED WITH B.C.

Party of Seven on Colonization Mission

Were Taken up Island To-day to See Opportunities For Settlement

Emigration from Switzerland annually represents a total of about 2,000 persons, and the countries preferred are Canada, Australia, and Argentina, according to the party of Swiss editors who arrived in the city yesterday afternoon.

They have just completed a two weeks' tour of the Dominion under the aegis of A. B. Calder, Special Representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway. They are traveling as the guests of the company, by invitation of President E. W. Beatty, K.C.

Those who comprise the party are Professor Pierre E. Briquet, Journal de Geneva, Geneva; Professor Paul Cardinaux, Liberte, Geneva; Georges Rigassi, Gazette de Lausanne, Lausanne; Dr. H. Schoop, Basler Nachrichtan; Basle; Dr. Rudolf Schwabe, National Zeitung, Basle; Ernest Schurch, Bund, Berne, and Ernest Ristmann, Gazette of Zurich.

Pleased With B.C.

The editors are most favorably impressed with British Columbia, regarding the physical configuration as most nearly parallel to the home conditions. While the majority of the Swiss who have come to this country hitherto have been settled on the prairies, there is no doubt that conditions in this Province appealed most to the journalists.

"In consideration of this problem," said Mr. Rigassi to The Times, it should be explained that the trades which are suffering greatest from unemployment in Switzerland are the machine and metal industries of the towns, a circumstance by no means confined to Switzerland, but general throughout northern and western Europe. The Swiss artizan, while he may be a mechanic now, in the majority of cases was brought up on the land, and it requires no special effort to train him to return to the first love. The Swiss immigrant would take to farming in your valleys with very little inducement, and it would be a good thing for him, as well as relieving the problem of unemployment in our small country.

"It is the intention only to encourage the highest type of emigrant," Mr. Rigassi said. "There is no expectation to make a large movement, but there is no reason why the average immigration of Swiss to Canada, which reached about 1,900 last year, should not be exceeded.

After British Columbia, Alberta is the province which most appealed to the distinguished visitors. From Edmonton to Calgary the trip was made by motor car and the opportunity was taken to visit Swiss settlers who have been farming in that district for the past twenty-five years. They were found to be prosperous and contended that they did not want to live anywhere but in western Canada, Mr. Reitmann stated.

Welcomed Here

The editors were met here yesterday by Joseph Patrick, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau; George I. Warren, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; B. C. Nicholas, director of that body; Thomas Walker, and others. The Swiss consul at Vancouver, S. Gintzberger, accompanied the party to Victoria.

Arrangements were at once made for a visit to the Experimental Station at Sidney, the drive being made by way of Gordon Head. To-day the party proceeded up-Island to Alberni, the intention being to spend a day and a half on the Island until the schedule calls for them leaving Nanaimo for Vancouver at noon to-morrow.

New York Piqued

New York was somewhat piqued at the possibility of losing place to London on the new issue and consequently when houses there saw that London market cut off by the pound's depreciation they figured that Canada would have to come to them and they prepared to receive any Canadian request. In short, they knew the absolute security of a Dominion of Canada issue and also knew they could find a ready market for it among their clients. They hoped, however, to take advantage of a tempoarry market condition in the States and get the Canadian bonds at a bargain figure.

Instead of this, the Minister of Finance decided to make the offering right at home. None knew better than he that Canada was prosperous and that Canadians had large sums of money on hand for sound investments Mr. Fielding therefore decided to offer Canadians the soundest investment of all, a bond with the entire resources of the Dominion of Canada behind it, and at a price to yield considerably more than similar bonds were yielding in the Great Britain and the United States. His judgment has been vindicated by the very heavy preliminary subscription to the loan.

Early Subscriotions

A feature of the $72,000,000 of early subscriptions is that only a comparatively small portion is from institutions. The reason for this is the short time since the first announcement had prevented the majority of big companies from passing the necessary resolutions enabling definite subscriptions thus far. A number of these big subscriptions will be received in the course of the next few days. In the case of the earlier popular loans, several weeks passed before the public offering permitted completion of these (special subscriptions) before the first day.

With the exception of one or two large blocks, the $72,000,000 total contains none of these subscriptions. The two largest are from the Sun Life in Montreal and the Metropolitan Life of New York. The first named company has taken $10,000,000 and the latter $5,000,000.

The subscriptions of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is the first big subscription from across the border. Metropolitan Life is renowned for its conservative investments. It already is one of the largest individual holders of Canadian securities in the world, and its present purchase of the new loan after keenest scrutiny, is indicative of the esteem in which offerings of Canadian Government bonds are held in the United States.

Purchasers of the new issue are given the choice of a long term bond, due in 1943, which a leading financier calls "the soundest and sweetest bond ever offered the Canadian people," and a short term bond due in 1928, which will appeal to those who prefer to get their capital back in five years, or about the duration of the average mortgage. The twenty year bond offered at 98.25 and interest, which gives it a yield of 5.14 per cent. and the five year bond at 99 and interest which gives the higher return of 5.22 per cent. over the shorter period.

A comparison of the prices at which similar securities are selling both in Great Britain and the United States, shows the very decided advantage as regards interest which Canadians receive when they subscribe to the new refunding offering.

Of the United States bonds, seven Liberty issues and one Treasury issue are selling at a price which gives them an average return of only 4¼ per cent. One issue which matures within two months of the five year Canadian bond now offered is returning at its present price almost three-quarter of one per cent less than the new Canadian bond.

In comparison with the renewal loan which was issued a little over a year ago by the Government for the benefit of holders of 1922 Victory bonds who wished to exchange into a new security, the reception already awarded to the new refunding loan is very significant. Last year the conversion offer was open for considerably over two months, and in the whole period a total of only $110,000,000 was converted. In contrast to this it is pointed out that in the final forthy-eight business hours of last week, without any selling effort, subscripitons aggregating over $72,800,000, almost entirely cash, have been received for the present offering, a figure equal to almost exactly two-thirds of the entire amount of last year's conversion loan.

In addition to giving Canadians the opportunity to secure a Dominion of Canada loan sold at an extremely favorable rate, Honorable Mr. Fielding is also effecting a very substantial saving by making the offering a domestic one. Had he sold his bonds in New York interest would have been payable in New York funds. At the present rate of exchange on New York funds, the Minister of Finance has already made possible a saving on annual interest alone of approximately $200,000 by obtaining Canadian money for expenditure in Canada for the benefit of Canadians.
